The nation's traffic death toll passed the 300 mark in the first 2 1/2 days of the long Christmas weekend, a pace far below pre-holiday estimates by safety experts.

James F. Neal, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and chief prosecutor in this case, said he had no idea whether the government would seek a retrial.

In the five years since he became president of the 1.5-million-member Teamsters Union, Hoffa has spent much of his time in legal scraps with the federal government.

The stocky labor boss was acquitted by a Washington, D.C., jury in 1957 of conspiring to bribe a McClellan committee investigator. Later that year he was indicted in New York on wiretap conspiracy charges. The first trial ended in a hung jury. Hoffa was acquitted on a retrial the next year.

Hoffa charged the Kennedy administration, particularly Atty.

Youth Asphyxiated in His Automobile but Girl Friend Is Revived

EAU CLAIRE (AP)—A 20-year-old Eau Claire youth, employed out of town and home for the holidays, was asphyxiated in his automobile early this morning. His girl friend revived and was in fair condition. Authorities said death was due to carbon monoxide fumes from the car heater. Randall Langworthy was pronounced dead on arrival at Luther Hospital. His date, Ellen Gardner, 19, of Stanley, Wis., was believed recovering.

Langworthy's father, Howard, found the two, both unconscious, in the automobile parked in front of his home when he came out of the house to go to work this morning. He carried them into the house, summoned Dr. Patrick Finucane, a physician who lived nearby, and rescue squads. Miss Gardner was revived by artificial respiration but efforts to revive Langworthy were unsuccessful.

The Power of Faith

Throughout the Ages Man's faith in God has been assaulted by the godless; each generation has fought the fight. For Christians, the anniversary of the birth of the Christ Child is an occasion for renewal of faith. Recalling that this event changed the shape of the world — brought lordly kings to a lowly stable, then humbled a pagan empire — men realize that faith can move mountains.

"I am with you always," said the Savior, "even unto the end of the world."

A Story for Christmas Reading

BY AN APPLETON PRIEST

Tom Noelo jumped nimbly from the school bus that brought him a few miles out of town each day. All of his ten years tucked in a red coat, he scampered blithely through the snow that fell like confetti tossed from heaven's windows by playful angels. Into the warm kitchen he scrambled, trailing blobs of snow and water.

"Hi, Mom," he chortled, remembering to hang up his coat and hat for it was Christmas Eve.

"Hello, son. Did you enjoy the Christmas party?"

"It was tops, Mom." Tommy replied, submitting, boy-like, to his mother's kiss. "There were games, and prizes, and cookies and everything. See what I won!"

"Why Tommy, how wonderful! It's a very nice ball." Mrs. Noelo exclaimed; then she added in an altered tone, "Tommy, can you do the chores tonight? Your father isn't feeling well at all."

"Sure thing, Ma," Tommy chimed in his melodious soprano. "I'll be done quick as a whistle."

came back, and then his version of a Christmas carol melted into the darkness.

"Down, Tiger! Down, I say!" Tommy's voice shrilled at his dog, as it barked and ran about, frightening the sheep. The dog shifted into low gear, and tamely followed the lad. Soon he had finished calving the "woolies" and fed them, and proceeded light-heartedly to the pig pen. A he began to mix the fodder, the pigs crowded around the trough, oink-oinking clamorously, for all the world to hear. He remembered that when he was very little, he used to think the pigs were reciting grace before meals when they vociferated so importunately. Any way, they were quiet now, except for the noisy, lapping sounds they made as they ate. This job was about finished. Another pitchfork of straw in that corner of the sty — that ought to do the trick.

With youth's inexhaustible energy he precipitated himself into the farm yard, half running, half dancing through the swirling snow, to feed the other animals in the big barn.

At the door he suddenly stood stock still. He thought he heard the sound of voices. Or what sort of sounds were they?

Cautiously, silently, he entered. There! He heard it again. Voices they were for sure, one a deep, dull bass, another keyed in a high, harsh pitch. But they were voices.

He was about to snap on the barn lights, when the unexpected braying of the donkey startled him so that he almost leaped a foot into the air.

"Hee-haw! Hee-haw! Hee-haw!"

"What are you laughing at, you stupid ass?"

That voice! Real words! Tommy looked! Real words! But he saw no one though his eyes were accustomed to the darkness by this time. Then he heard — well, at least he thought he heard — the donkey retort:

"Why you dumb old ox, you, what are you bellowing about, you big dunce?"

Tommy could hardly believe it! Animals talking! Nonetheless he crept nearer to the stables occupied by the ox and the ass. In angry tones the ox boomed: "Dumb ox, am I? Well just don't you forget that's what they called the young Tom Aquinas when his teacher told them all that his 'Bellowing' would be heard over the whole world."

"He-haw! He-haw!" the donkey's laughter somersaulted all over the place. "Wait, hold it, I'm not laughing at you!"

"Then what in the world are you laughing at, you foolish clown?"

"Hee-haw! Hee-haw! I'll tell you as soon as I can stop laughing."

"That laugh of yours is no 'donkey's serenade'!"

Planes Kept On Stringent Schedule

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Operation Ransom roared into action this Christmas Eve to continue an airlift of 1,113 prisoners of Cuba's communism to freedom and wildly joyous family reunions on free U.S. soil.

All the indications were for a full-speed ahead to wind up the job begun Sunday. The day's first plane — 109 more survivors of the unsuccessful April 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion — touched down at Homestead Air Force Base at 10:24 a.m.

It seemed possible the whole job would be completed in the afternoon.

Today's first flight brought the total on free soil to 535.

Unexplained Delay

The airlift brought 426 men to Florida from the San Antonio de los Baños military airport outside Havana in the spectacular Sunday operation before suspending for the night.

The halt was sudden and without explanation after the last of four flights deposited its humans-for-goods cargo on free soil. The pilots of planes waiting in Cuba then decided, however, to spend the night there and resume, rested, in the morning.

This meant the vigil kept throughout Sunday by many thousands of anxious, weary, prisoners' relatives had to be faced again on Christmas eve.

All the pent-up tension of a long, prayerful campaign to free the 1,113 invasion survivors exploded in a roaring storm of emotion as Cuban exiles got their first glimpses of wan, tired young men brought in by a spectacular Operation Ransom shuttle.

DC's, supplied by Pan American World Airways flew between Miami and Havana carrying to freedom plane loads of men exchanged by Fidel Castro's regime for $33 million worth of food and medicines sorely needed in Cuba.

108 on First Plane

The first plane landed at 6:06 p.m., EST, Sunday, carrying 108 pale, tired men who suffered bitter defeat in their attempt to liberate their Island nation and repeated humiliations at the hands of Havana's Communist-dominated government.

By 8:55, the fourth plane had arrived, bringing the total number delivered to 426.

Then the flights seemed to be suspended, although officials in Miami said they could not explain it. Anxious relatives who had waited since early morning until long past midnight slowly began to drift off, in deep disappointment, from the Dinner Key Auditorium reception center. Some simply dropped from exhaustion in their chairs.

Crowds waiting for the prisoners since early Sunday morning had gone through eight hours of tense, fear-laden vigil before a

Yule Cards Pour Into White House

Many Forwarded to President at Florida Hideaway

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—A deluge of Christmas cards with greetings from the warm hearts of Americans—and even from people in other lands—has been pouring into the White House at a rate of 1,500 a day.

They offer President Kennedy words of prayer, confidence and encouragement. They give him thanks and praise.

Those from important people—and there are many—and a sampling of those from ordinary people have been forwarded direct to the chief executive at his holiday hideaway in Palm Beach, Fla. He doesn't have the time to see them all. Yet every one is counted and catalogued at the White House.

They come from as far away as Hawaii and Tokyo. A 15-year-old Japanese girl sends a lovely card on rice paper and a bit of poetry to "Dear President Kennedy."

"A merry Christmas, a joyous day, Then a year that's happy In every way."

Adults Echoed
In words which a number of adults echoed, a 14-year-old boy in Victoria, British Columbia, penned on his card "best wishes for a peaceful new year."

About one out of every three cards was from a child or teenager.

From youngsters and adults there were expressions of approval of the President's handling of the Cuban crisis written beneath, or opposite the formal greetings.

One card posted on the USS Forrestal, an aircraft carrier, pictured four jets hauling Santa's sleigh. On it a member of Fighter Squadron 103 told his commander in chief: "Thanks for your stand in the Cuban crisis. It makes me proud to be an American."

In a beautiful, clear hand a San Diego, Calif., girl who said she was a fourth grader wished the President a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year and then assured him: "I liked the way you managed during the Cuban crisis."

Some of the cards are completely impersonal. Others are signed as if the President were a member of the family. A sailor on a destroyer escort mailed a card signed simply "Jim and Betty."

There is a generous sprinkling of "spiritual bouquets" and cards from religious groups. A Camden, N.J., woman promised the President, "You will be remembered in 5,000 holy Masses, 12,500 holy Communion, 15,000 holy Rosaries."

A Jewish family in the Bronx sent in a Hanukkah greeting card with a written prayer: "May the good Lord keep, safeguard and protect you and your loved ones. You are indeed a fearless and dynamic leader—God bless you."

West Hoped For Recall of Zorin Since '60

Red Official Herald of Anti-U.N. Line in Congo

BY MILT FREUDENHEIM
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

UNITED NATIONS — A political chill that came down on the United Nations in the summer of 1960 now has lifted with the departure of Valerian Alexandrovich Zorin.

It is a moment Western diplomats have been hoping for since the day he arrived to herald the Soviet anti-U.N. line in the Congo crisis.

The craggy-faced, rarely-smiling Soviet Ambassador and Deputy Foreign Minister is the walking symbol of sub-zero weather in the east-west cold war.

From his role in the Communist take-over in Czechoslovakia in 1948 to the attack on the late U.N. Sec. Gen. Dag Hammarskjöld in 1960-'61, Zorin has been the hard-nosed herald of bad news.

"The Hatchet," one Western ambassador dubbed him, after a lengthy round of frustration with Zorin in behind-the-scenes diplomacy here.

U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson, who doubtless regards the change in Soviet envoys as a happy Christmas present, cherished hopes Zorin would be recalled early in 1961.

That might have been a sign Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was ready to take a new reasonable tack with the Kennedy Administration, but the recall failed to come through then.

Western diplomats tried a transparent ruse to get Zorin out of town in this fall's disarmament maneuvers in the U.N. assembly.

Switch Talks
The Soviets wanted to conduct disarmament talks in New York, where Zorin could lead them. The West insisted on a switch to Geneva, thinking Zorin would go where the talks were.

Instead, the Soviets laughed up their sleeves. They left Zorin at the U.N. and let Semyon K. Tsarapkin maintain the deadlock in Geneva.

But the combination of the Cuba missile crisis and the Red China-India war has brought a switch in Soviet tactics, at least on the surface.

The first sign was the assignment of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov — the man Zorin replaced in 1960 — to conduct the relatively successful talks with Stevenson and John J. McCloy on Cuba.

Then Zorin himself was placed in the unfamiliar role of keeping his speeches short and dull, with hardly a nasty word in a paragraph even when the 110-nation Assembly debated Hungary and Korea last week.

In a farewell press conference Friday, Zorin adopted an almost grandfatherly tone as he brushed off a question about the new American-British Polaris missile deal as "a family affair."

President Tried Not to Think of Son in Cuba

BY CHARLES WHITED
Chicago Daily News Service

MIAMI — Jose Miro Cardona, the man who sent them to the Bay of Pigs, popped a green and yellow pill into his mouth moments before the first plane load of liberated prisoners slid out of the evening sky.

"For two years I have fought Castro, and I have tried not to think of my son," he said. "Not in any way. I was thinking of the boys who die and go to prison."

A cigarette appeared, a glow of fire in his face, then quick, nervous puffs billowed around the heavy Cuban spectacles of the President of the Cuban Revolutionary Council.

As the crowd gathered on the concrete apron at Homestead Air Force Base, his eyes watched from dark shells.

"Now," he said, "I cannot talk well. I am, how you say, unbalanced."

Miro measured off the waiting hours in a conference room of headquarters.

He did not talk then of his son, Jose Miro Torres, 34, the father of four in a Castro prison, with a ransom of $100,000 on his head. But when the first plane came, Miro stood at the foot of the steps. He waved and he wept.

Latin Embrace
And as the first 107 men filed down, one by one in the glare of television lights, he gathered each into a back-pounding Latin embrace so vigorous that his glasses almost tumbled off.

Jose was not on the first plane. He turned away, removed his glasses and wiped them with a handkerchief. "The next plane,"

Many Toes Stepped on In Attempt at Coherent Western Defense Policy

Kennedy-Macmillan Talks Look Hopefully Toward Decade of '70s

BY PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — A good many toes were stepped on in the large stride toward a more coherent Western defense policy taken at Nassau last week.

But the Kennedy-Macmillan talks in the Bahamas looked far beyond tomorrow's political anguish in London, the massive self-esteem of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, or the potential unemployment problem at the Douglas Aircraft Co. caused by the burial of the Skybolt.

When — and if — the nuclear arrangements made at Nassau finally materialize, Europe's cast of characters will almost certainly be replaced, for the NATO nuclear force looks toward a post-De Gaulle France and a post-Adenauer Germany, toward the decade of the 1970s.

U. S. policymakers believe the manned bomber will be almost obsolete by then. The British Vulcan II and the French Mirage IV may remain as symbols of national defense, but their roles will be reduced to dropping gravity bombs on enemy targets if they can survive the enemy's air defense.

Washington officials are convinced of the rightness of the decision to integrate the nuclear strength of Britain and France, as well as the United States into a NATO force, even though the question of whose finger will be on the NATO atomic trigger has yet to be worked out.

They recognize that such spokesmen for the manned bomber as Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis LeMay and the powerful aircraft industry will fight the action in Congress. But they appear confident that the economic, technical and strategic facts will outweigh all other arguments.

They deny that the budget dictated the Skybolt abandonment, pointing out that President Kennedy offered Prime Minister Harold Macmillan a plan whereby the United States would share half the cost of developing the controversial air-to-ground missile if the British wanted it that way. This was done, as the Nassau communiqué stated, to prolong the life of the British V-Bomber force. But Macmillan accepted the U. S. estimate of the cost, delay and dubious effectiveness of the Skybolt, and rejected the offer.

It was then that the agreement on the Polaris missile was reached. Britain will build the submarines and adapt their nuclear warheads to the Polaris, which they will buy from the United States.

But two conditions were attached to this agreement: The British will integrate their Polaris force into NATO in time and will build up their conventional forces on the grounds that, in the communiqué's language, "in addition to having a nuclear shield, it is important to have a nonnuclear sword."

French President De Gaulle was made the same offer and upon his acceptance of it rests the progress of the scheme in the coming months.

The project will not be dead if he rejects it, however, officials say. The logic of it, in a day when the strategic defense of West is indivisible and when allied unity is the best deterrent against Soviet attack, will remain for post-De Gaulle France to consider, they contend.

Castroites in Venezuela Send Yanks Threats

Pro-U. S. Leaders See Poison Pens as Act of Frustration

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — During the tension created by the arms blockade of Cuba a form letter appeared in mail boxes of many of the 7,000 U.S. residents of Caracas.

"For each Cuba bound ship sabotaged by you we will answer with drastic action that will make you reconsider your decision," said the letter. "In the case of a direct invasion of Cuba we will invoke a decree of war to the death until not one single American remains alive in our territory."

The letter, signed "National Guerrilla Command of Armed Forces of National Liberation," caused little stir in a country that has attracted United States investments and residents for decades.

Notes Dismissed
The strongly pro-U.S. government of President Romulo Betancourt dismissed it as a sign of frustration in pro-Castro elements among Venezuela's 40,000 Communists, many of whom advocate the overthrow of the government.

"Letters never hurt anyone," said a U.S. citizen who has lived in Caracas eight years. "You get used to things like this."

But precautions have been taken by dozens of U.S. firms operating in this city of skyscrapers and packed highways.

A typical front office boasts a shotgun guard as well as a pretty receptionist. Calling cards will not get visitors past the guard. Escort or other formal identification is required. The guards began appearing after a series of incidents involving United States establishments. A bomb went off in a bathroom of the U.S. Embassy, another bomb injured five persons at a hotel operated by a U.S. company, and five gunmen shot up offices of the English language newspaper. The most damaging blow came Oct. 27 when four substations of a U.S. petroleum company were dynamited.

Betancourt angrily declared the substations were blown up on direct orders from Havana. He has asked the Organization of American States to act.

No Flight
There is little sign of flight by U.S. business interests which have some $4 billion invested in Venezuela, more than in any other country except Canada.

The U.S. businesses could not easily withdraw, even if they wished. Their interests have become closely allied with Venezuela's during the many years in which American capital has flowed into this country. U.S. oil companies alone have $3 billion invested here. Operating on a basis of 70 per cent of proceeds to the Venezuelan government, U.S. developers have made this one of the largest oil exporting countries. They provide the Betancourt government more than $1 billion yearly, about 60 per cent of its total income.

Betancourt's government wants more, rather than less, foreign investment, and some U.S. capital is still coming in. A Ford assembly plant is among a half dozen enterprises under construction.

The president has asked the Supreme Court to outlaw the Communist party. Arrests seem likely even for Communist members of

Holy Night

At about this time of the Christmas season, the rush subsides, the nearly frantic haste with which so many of us prepare for the holidays no longer seems essential and a quiet glow takes the place of the frenzy.

This is the time when there is wonder shining in the eyes of small children as they behold the lighted tree and the tiny figures of a table creche.

This is the time when families gather together, the wanderers return from their travels, all content quite suddenly to be still and serene around the hearth.

This is the time when those who cannot be with us are recalled in fond memory so that their vacant places around the fireside almost seem to be filled.

Here is the modern miracle of Christmas Eve. The light that shineth in darkness glows through the neon and the smog just as surely, as steadily, as brightly as it did in the desert so many years ago. There is something out of the ordinary in our comprehension of the meaning of the birth of Jesus which seems to come in spite of the taudriness and materialism that sometimes seems to take over this holiday.

But we really shouldn't be surprised at the hush and the light. The Star shone alike to shepherds and kings.

"That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world."

The Press and National Security

Some of the most respected newspapermen in this country, representing three national organizations in the daily and weekly newspaper industry, met recently to consider the role of the press in relation to the security of the United States in these perilous times.

Their conclusions were stated simply and clearly:

"Security of military information can best be maintained by open application of uniform censorship rules known to all. Past experience indicates that such rules will be observed cheerfully by all.

"Security of the nation can be maintained only by the full reporting of all the truth that is not harmful to the national military interest."

Their statement continued: "We are concerned lest government go beyond the legitimate suppression of strictly military information, and look upon news of what the government is doing not as an honest report of what happened, but as a means to some desired end. This involves control of public information, which is something that should be kept wholly separate from censorship of military information.

"The history of free government is a history of escape from the evils of suppressing or controlling or manipulating news to achieve some supposedly useful end. We believe that the United States will remain strongest if it remains freest. This country must always come off second best if it departs from its own tradition to imitate a totalitarian enemy, by regarding news not as news but as a weapon or other instrument of national policy.

"Granted full and accurate information, the American people may sometimes react to it in a way not expected or desired by government. But we believe that even in a major crisis the United States will be strongest if it regards news of what the government does as a truth that must be put before the public."

The statement obviously refers for the most part to the policy of the Kennedy administration during the Cuban crisis of controlling the flow of news to the nation's press so that the government would "speak as one voice," and utilizing this technique as a weapon of diplomacy.

The great difference of opinion on this subject between the administration and the press really comes down to the question of whether the administration should secretly make up its mind about what to do in a certain foreign crisis or whether the facts should be put before the American people so that they have some voice in the eventual course of action.

We'll string along with the wisdom of the American people.

Dreaming of a Nice Christmas

Henry Taylor Writes

A Boy Borrowed for Christmas; It's Heart-Warming Yule Story

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

How little the deepest hopes of people change in our changed world and how much alike we really are if we are missing a happiness we seek. In the firelight of a child's memory I am going back to a Christmas Eve, which for most of us is long ago, although to me it seems just yesterday. I was a boy, six years old, visiting my grandparents in the country outside Columbus, Ohio.

There was snow everywhere that Christmas, blizzards and gusts of snow that hung to the trees and covered the fences, and the little house that was my home for the holidays looked like a great white mound except for the thin smoke rising from the chimney.

IT WAS UNCLE NED Suddenly there was a trample of feet, like thunder, a loud "Whoa," and a ripping and plowing of the snowdrift. There stood two great steaming black horses, towering over the doorway, frost hanging to their muzzles. My Uncle Ned jumped down from the sleigh. His face was red from the cold and he laughed like a blessed Santa Claus as he said, "Merry Christmas!"

Then he walked up close to mother, a twinkle in his eye, and glanced down at me over his shoulder, standing there in my copper-toed boots. "I want to borrow a boy for Christmas," he said. "Madie told me to get him even if I had to steal him. I'll have him back here bright and early tomorrow morning, ready to see what's in his stocking."

president of the Kimberly High School Band. Other new officers were Charles Gostas, vice president, and Rosella Dufrane, secretary and treasurer.

Little Chute servicemen who were home for the holidays included Naval Cadet Lee Gloudermans, Seaman Kenneth Hermen, Seaman Kenneth Ebben, Army Pvt. Marvin Lamers and Airman Clifford Jansen.

John Harriman was elected president of the Appleton Chess and Checker Club. Roy Massey was named secretary.

I was so astonished I could not speak. I do not think that any king or queen ever received more of a thrill than was mine at that moment.

Uncle Ned and Aunt Madie's home was on a farm a few miles away, and they had no children. The idea of the trip was all the paradise that I could ask at Christmas, for there was the surge of adventure in my heart and I had never slept even one night farther from my good mother than the next room.

"Can I go?" I finally stammered. She smiled and nodded and told me to get my face washed. How can I describe Uncle Ned's cottage and the Christmas Eve welcome — the one weather-beate and the other kindness raised on high I can see every corner of that home — the blazing log in the fireplace; a canary bird that warbled beautifully, like the high note of a flute; a wall motto woven in colored thread that said: "Do Unto Others as You Would Have Others Do Unto You." But loneliness lived there, too, for had they not borrowed a boy for Christmas?

Time came for dinner. Aunt Madie put the whole set of blue dishes on the table and I sat next to her, a thick book under me to raise my head above the plate. Uncle Ned asked a blessing that contained not one word about devils and disaster. It was a plea to the Almighty that all of us might always remember the Golden Rule; that all of us might be properly grateful on this Christmas Eve for the bounties that had reached us in our great country. And there was a special blessing for the boy who had been borrowed at Christmas.

I can see Aunt Madie's face now. She always smiled. In my childlike way I loved her deeply, and I could not keep my eyes off her face.

A BIG WORK IS LOVE Aunt Madie caught my gaze as the meal went on and asked me, over the coffee pot, "Why do you look at me, Henry?" And I stammered because I was embarrassed and said, "Because I love you and you are so good."

What had I done! What had I done! Tears filled her eyes. She stood up and came around my chair with love, I suppose for all children, glowing, and placed her warm arms around me and kissed me, while Uncle Ned wheezed and said, "Madie, you ought to have had a dozen of your own."

Then evening came and the sparks were wonderful in the chimney. Aunt Madie took out a big, flat, tattered old book and sang in a low voice, "Silent Night, Holy Night." The little melodeon kept up with her and even the canary woke on its perch and trilled a few bars and the great sadness of this house was shut out on that Christmas Eve by fine people trying to be happy as best they could.

I was carried to a soft bed in Aunt Madie's room, and I heard Uncle Ned's deep voice saying, "Be sure to put plenty of cover over that boy." And I was away to dreamland. Merry Christmas.

Wirebasket Popcorn Popper Never Comes Down Off Wall

From Exchanges

The wirebasket popcorn popper, the one with the long wooden handle, still hangs on the wall of the homeplace's back porch, but no one bothers to take it down anymore on a cool evening to pop some corn for Christmas decorations.

Things weren't always as they are today. For on the farm the kids looked ahead for weeks to the time when Ma said they could pull down from the wall on the back porch the popper, shell some corn that came from the small patch down beyond the clump of oak trees, the patch that Pa always set aside for growing popcorn for Christmas time.

One night was usually selected for this holiday season popping. And all the family gathered around the low-burning fire in the fireplace. The kids had, hours ago, forbidden anyone to stir the fire because they knew that when the wire-basket popper with grains of corn inside was put over the heat, too much would burn the corn, and it wouldn't pop.

In the quietness of the evening around the farm home living room, the kernels bursting out into snow-white particles sounded like miniature firecrackers.

Of course, someone slipped into the kitchen, coming back with freshly churned butter and some salt and that started it. The temptation to eat was too much and for a few minutes everyone forgot the real purpose of popping the corn, i.e. to make Christmas decorations for the tree and the room.

With a strong needle, and some big sewing thread, the kind Ma used for her quilt-making, the white corn was strung up. Around and around the tree it went, intermingled with paper chains, made from multi-colored poster paper from the school supplies, and the room was a festive place, for it was Christmas now. It told the kids in the family that it wouldn't be long till time to hang their stockings in front of the fireplace in the home down on the farm.

Wisconsin Report

Bill to Abolish County Colleges Dies Quickly In Legislative Council

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — As was inevitable, the Legislative Council the other day put to death as quietly as possible the equivocal proposal of one of its study committees to do away with the ancient county teacher college system of Wisconsin.

Any cub on the state capital political beat could have predicted the death of the measure the moment it came to a roll call vote of elected legislators. There is the principle of the indestructibility of political institutions involved here. There is also the respected rule of the lawmaker and politician to leave good enough alone. Nobody is complaining about the teachers' colleges, as far as the eavrage elected senator or assemblyman knows. A good many persons have a sentimental attachment for them, including the alumni. Others have a more direct interest, including those now enrolled in them, working in them, or running them. There is also the reasonably grounded suspicion that some of the "education" experts are as concerned about more favored and rival institutions, as they are solicitous about tax dollars now being wasted, as they put it in the local training schools.

HOW IT GOES All of this is not to say that the days of the county colleges are not numbered. It is perfectly safe to conjecture that within the decade all or most of them will whither away, or will be adjusted to new kinds of service that have little relation to their historic role.

As the study committee said in its report to the Council, somewhat redundantly, there is an obvious trend toward qualifying rules that will make the two year teaching certificate holder unemployable in the classroom within a relatively short time.

The school integration movement has already reduced sharply the number of jobs in which the person with a two year teaching degree will be hired. Here is precisely where the committee went wrong. It spent the better part of a year discovering that the county colleges will sooner or later become obsolete. It quite overlooked the fact that while there remain any measurable number of classroom places for such county college graduates, there will be a motive — if not a justification — for continuing these.

There is a lesson in the quick acceptance of another part of the interim committee's recommendations — for the four year degree as minimum preparation for any teacher, in any public school job, after 1972.

The Council accepted that without hesitation — although it may be pointed out that there is nothing very radical about voting for a proposition that won't become effective for a decade, so that there will be three or four intervening legislatures that can reconsider, if the occasion arises. Yet the situation proves a point — that the colleges can be pushed into extinction by indirection, by depriving them of a function and by destroying the market for their product, while it is impossible to attack them frontally.

REGIONAL POLITICS

There is a regional prejudice and rivalry involved in the dispute — if it can be dignified with that name — about the rate of the county colleges. Most of them serve rural districts, most of them fairly remote. Most of their critics come from the southern urban areas and know very little about rural traditions, habits and problems of public service operations. There too often is in the comments of these city folk a condescension poorly concealed.

Too often also there is a blithe assumption that the county college should be dismantled in Barron County or Kewaunee county, or wherever, to save money for the taxpayer, while that same taxpayer should unflinchingly entertain the costs of far more expensive services for the benefit of those city folk — such as the trial balloons now going aloft on behalf of a new four year state university in southeastern Wisconsin when the new University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee has scarcely got its program off the ground.

It is these conflicts that make the rural political interest in the legislature so fiercely wary. In politics caution is easily mistaken for reaction.

Finest Christmas Gift For Children Is Love

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS (Reprinted by Request)

No, Virginia, there is no Santa Claus.

There is no ruddy fat man with merry eyes and a white beard, who comes down the chimney at night to reward little boys and girls for being good.

Because, you see, Virginia, all over the world there are millions of little boys and girls who have been as good as good can be — but they get no toys, and sometimes they awake on Christmas morning without enough food to eat.

There are fathers and mothers, Virginia, who have been appointed by God to love their children — and they give them love, although they cannot always give them presents.

And these fathers and mothers are more wonderful and magical and mysterious than Santa Claus could ever be. They bring something infinitely more precious than dolls and trains to their children — they bring the mark of God's love down to every boy and girl.

And, sometimes, even these fathers and mothers are taken away. But there are others in the world, divinely touched, who look after these children and share with them their meager possessions.

Compared with this miracle of care and tenderness, Santa Claus is a pale figure of fantasy. For he, you see, only rewards boys and girls who have been "good." But in the eyes of God, and parents, all boys and girls are truly good at heart.

Presents at Christmas are fun, of course, but do you imagine, Virginia, that the children with the most presents are the happiest ones?

When there is little love in a home, there is little merriment — and without merriment, the doll is dust and the train is tin.

All over the world, on Christmas morning, children will be waking up without a visit from Santa Claus — or with a gift you would hardly look at, an orange, an extra slice of bread, a frayed piece of string.

Yet if there is someone who loves them, who frolics with them and heals them, they have a greater gift than any fat man in a bright red suit could possibly bring them.

There are fathers who work for their children, and mothers who sing to their children, and God who gives fathers the strength to work when they are weak, and mothers the spirit to sing when they are sad.

No, Virginia, there is no Santa Claus — there does not need to be.

Potomac Fever — by Fletcher Knebel

The thaw in the cold war is so pronounced, Kennedy and Macmillan had to go to the Bahamas to get acclimated to it.

Mrs. Khrushchev is delighted at the prospect of a direct Kremlin-White House phone. She's ready with her Christmas shopping list for the super markets.

Virginia's Senator Byrd fights JFK on taxes. Virginia's Congressman Smith fights Kennedy on House rules. Yes, Santa Claus, there is a Virginia.

The Mona Lisa arrives in the United States. Her smile is no longer a mystery. She's merely grateful to have been painted before artists discovered tin cans, Freud and spray guns.

1962 will be remembered as the year of great scientific advance — when they froze the orange juice right on the trees.

Kennedy was so good on his chatty White House TV interview, the networks may tap him as the tourist guide replacement for Jacqueline.

Christmas Greeting in 1862

106 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Dec. 21, 1862.

A Merry, Merry Christmas, we wish our readers, one and all. The brown russet of autumn has mellowed and ripened and passed away into grim December.

Many who welcomed the merry Christmas of but one year ago, around homes and hearthstone blithe and gay, who gathered around the Christmas Tree with its burdens of gifts for young and old, are now gathered around the camp bivouac fires. Perchance they think of those old familiar scenes and in memory live o'er the happy social hours of Christmas and New Year ties.

Bless their brave hearts. Life's checker board has moved them into the shadows of our country's gloom, but future years will cause them to revert with pride to the Christmas passed in the field in defense of country.

Yet let not all of gloom be ours. Happy hearts, light and gay, hail with youthful pleasure the festive scene. The Christmas Tree is still evergreen and loaded well. The ringing laugh or beaming smile greets us still. Brush aside the cobwebs of life's every day routine and allow your better self, your true heart expand into a hearty enjoyment of Christmas time.

Let in the sunshine and laugh the wrinkles off your brow. Let's one and all be young and gay — 'tis Christmas, Merry Christmas time.

Lawrence Says
1,100 Cubans Saved From Execution
$62 Million
Cheap Price to Pay for Blunder

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — Eleven hundred Cubans have been saved from execution. And $62 million worth of goods to ransom them is perhaps a cheap price to pay for the blunder by the United States government that caused those same Cubans to be captured and imprisoned.

This tragic notation now can be made on the pages of history, but the important question yet to be answered is whether a lesson has been learned. The crucial point is who shall influence decisions of the President or even make them when military operations are already under way. Shall it be the Joint Chiefs of Staff or a group of civilian advisers in the government?

The Bay of Pigs invasion by Cuban exiles, encouraged and supported by the United States Government, recalls a story of indecision, a reversal of the recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and finally a debacle from which this country is only now extricating itself — if, indeed, the propagandists for Castro and Khrushchev will not capitalize on it effectively in Latin America for a long time to come. For, if the invasion had been allowed to succeed, Castro would have been out of power, the Communists would never have had any missile bases in Cuba, and the American people would have been spared the anguish of a nuclear scare.

What happened on that fateful night of April 16, 1961, has never been officially revealed. The public has not been given all the facts. A submissive Congress has refused to investigate and bring out the whole story. The reason, of course, is that the Democrats control Congress and naturally try to cover up the mistakes of a President of their own party.

The press, however, has been able to piece the story together from informed sources — particularly from close friends of the military people, who were disturbed by the crude piece of attempted blameshifting in administration circles when it was first sought to make the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff the scapegoats.

Cuban Fiasco

An authoritative account of the Cuban fiasco was published in the Sept. 17, 1962, issue of "U.S. News & World Report." It shows how the Cuban patriots who tried to liberate their countrymen were let down by the on-again-off-again process of policy-making at the White House. This vacillation seems to have persisted even in the recent prelude to the "quarantine" of Castro. The Soviets were allowed two months, beginning last August, to plant missiles in Cuba that could have wiped out a large part of the United States. This last adventure turned out all right for the President, but in the invasion of the Bay of Pigs, Mr. Kennedy said his advisers were wrong, though he himself took full responsibility. Here is an excerpt from the magazine story which has never been denied by any official source since it appeared:

"On Sunday evening (April 16, 1961), an armed force of Cuban refugees, trained by the United States, was at sea, sailing secretly to invade Fidel Castro's Cuba. The American President, a few hours earlier, had given final approval to that invasion. Only the day before, on April 15, a surprise attack by B-26 bombing planes belonging to the invaders had knocked out all but seven planes of Castro's tiny air force.

"A second air strike was scheduled for Monday morning, April 17. It was to coincide with the landing of the invaders. It was supposed to finish the job of wiping out Castro's planes and to provide air support for the invasion.

"Secure in this assurance of air support, the invaders went ashore in the early-morning darkness of Monday, April 17. Their landing was successful: 1,400 armed men reached the beaches of a place called the Bay of Pigs.

"In the battle that followed, Castro's troops suffered heavy casualties. Castro's tanks, coming up to the battle, were sitting ducks for an attack by air. Confidently, the little invading force waited for its air support to arrive. Its leaders had assurance of that support. It was provided in the preinvasion planning."

Air Cover

It should be noted here that the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff specifically recommended air cover and never withdrew their recommendation. But the military didn't run the operation — civilians in Washington did. The invaders in Cuba didn't know the promise of air cover had been withdrawn. Castro's remaining planes then took over. The invaders heroically held out — waiting for air cover.

On Tuesday night an appeal reached the President as he was playing host at a White House reception with his advisers—civilian and military. The latter renewed their plea for air cover. This time Mr. Kennedy relented slightly and consented to the use of one carrier's planes for one hour on Wednesday morning. A communication mixup developed and U.S. planes never got into action. It was too late. By April 19, the invasion was a failure.

Castro promptly imprisoned the 1,100 patriots and threatened to shoot them, whereupon the ransom idea emerged. Today, the Communist stooge in Cuba has been promised $62 million in goods in compensation for the prisoners — an exchange dictated

Social Security Tax Will Increase

BY SYLVIA PORTER

One week from tomorrow just about every employee, employer and self-employed individual in the United States will be hit in the pocketbook. On Jan. 1, your Social Security tax is going up for the ninth time since the Social Security system came into being in the late 1930s.

Porter

The tax on you, as an employee, will rise from the present 3 1/2 per cent to 4 per cent on your first $4,800 of earnings. Your maximum tax will increase from $150 this year to $174 next year. The tax on you, as an employer, will go up an identical amount. The combined tax will be 7 1/2 per cent, up a full 1 per cent, and will pull out an additional $2 billion from employees and employers in 1963.

The tax on you, as a self-employed person, will rise from the present 4.7 per cent to 5.4 per cent on your first $4,800 of income. Your maximum tax will climb from $225.60 this year to $259.20 next. If you earn considerably more than $4,800, your take-home pay will be substantially reduced in the early months of 1963. For instance, if your income is $200 a week, you'll pay $10.80 a week in social security tax alone until you have paid up your tax for 1963.

Rises Again

What's more, under the law passed last year the combined employer-employee tax is due to rise again to 8 1/2 per cent in 1966 and to 9 1/4 per cent in 1968. On our tax burden when we so much self-employed persons, it's due to need relief, the Social Security rise to 6.2 per cent in 1966 and to 6.9 per cent in 1968. And this doesn't consider what rates might be set if new benefits are voted. (If Congress had passed Medicare, which would have been financed through Social Security taxes — the rate would have been boosted to 9 1/4 per cent.

Even the most violent anti-welfare conservative no longer argues about Social Security benefits. These taxes are helping millions of Americans to be financially independent in their older years. The system has become a major prop under our economy because the benefits paid to so many millions are immediately and regularly spent day after day.

While we who are now paying the taxes are providing benefits to others, eventually we too will receive benefits. As the taxes have jumped, so have the benefits. In 1940, the maximum an individual worker retired at 65 could get was $45.60 a month. Now, the minimum is $40, the maximum is scheduled to go to $127 in 1963, and widows with young children can get much more.

Still, it's a heavy tax, and the rates already in the law well may be approaching the limits taxpayers will stand for.

We're carrying an income tax load which is obviously a drag on our entire economy. We're struggling under a mounting burden of state and local taxes.

We'll not retreat on Social Security taxes. With our soaring population and expanding needs for hundreds of state and local services, there's scant hope that the load will be eased at these government levels.

What's the way out, then? The way out is through across-the-board, top-to-bottom cuts in federal income taxes on individuals and corporations — the reductions President Kennedy has once more pledged he'll fight to get from Congress in 1963. By increasing and to 9 1/4 per cent in 1968. On our tax burden when we so much self-employed persons, it's due to need relief, the Social Security rise to 6.2 per cent in 1966 and to 6.9 per cent in 1968. And this doesn't consider what rates might be set if new benefits are voted. (If Congress had passed Medicare, which would have been financed through Social Security

If a 10 per cent social security rate is, as many experts believe, the limit taxpayers will stand for under our country's present tax structure, where do we go from here? Where we go is to federal income tax reduction. . . .

Kennedy's Father Continues Improvement After Stroke

PALM BEACH Fla. (AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, the President's father, who suffered a paralyzing stroke a year ago, is reported to be making continuing gains in ed making continuing gains in a slow rehabilitation process. He may even be back in his self-appointed role of family, airport greeter when the President arrives from the Bahamas Thursday for a Christmas family gathering.

It is a far happier atmosphere for the Kennedys than the days last year when the elder Kennedy lay stricken at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach. Medical sources, although reluctant to evaluate the 74-year-old Kennedy's condition, say he has made encouraging improvement. He is said to have regained some speech—though far from conversation—and can walk with the aid of a cane. Mostly, however, he gets about in a wheelchair. Medically, the President's father is considered discharged and the problem remaining is one of relearning and strengthening.

Looks Thinner

Six days a week, a physical therapist from the Palm Beach Rehabilitation center has an appointment with Kennedy, former ambassador to England, at his home. With yachting and he enjoys motion pictures shown in his home and television.

Although there is no longer any medical problem, four nurses are on duty at the Kennedy home on a 24-hour basis.

He gets about some in his car, with Ann Gargan, his niece and secretary, often doing the driving. He was on hand last Friday evening, a half-hour ahead of time, when First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy and grandchildren, Caroline and John Jr., arrived from Washington, D.C.

Freedom Airlift to Release PWs Today

The first liberation aircraft had taken off from San Antonio de Los Baños military air base 25 miles southwest of Havana.

The men were processed after landing at Homestead Air Force Base, 30 miles from Miami, fed a hearty roast beef dinner and then brought by bus to the auditorium in Miami. For hours there after the building was swept by gales of emotion.

Young fathers showered kisses on infant children whom they had never seen. Gaunt veterans of fighting in the swamps of Cuba wept tears of joy. Wives plunged through the milling crowds to throw themselves into the arms of husbands they had not seen.

with the operation found Prime Minister Fidel Castro on the scene in a merry mood. He told them he had declared a 24-hour "state of peace" with the United States for the occasion of the exchange, and he even escorted them on a personal tour of Havana.

In Miami thousands of Cuban exiles waited in an agony of suspense. Of the 150,000 or so Cuban exiles in the Miami area, about 20,000 are close relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders.

At last the moment they sometimes scarcely even dared hope for arrived. The first plane load of prisoners touched down at Homestead Air Force Base. In the Miami auditorium Cubans watching the drama on television roared out their cheers.

Taken to Auditorium

One woman fainted from the excitement. Another gasped, "My God, they are really coming now."

Darkness had closed in before a second plane touched down an hour later and prisoners stepped out into the glare of television lights and flashlight bulbs.

The men were taken at once to the base's processing center for attention by health and immigration officials before being given dinner in a room gay with Christmas decorations. Then they were taken to Miami and the auditorium, and to scenes of wild joy.

Many of the men seemed scarcely able to believe it was true. The 213 men who had been confined at the Isle of Pines prison camp were told only Saturday midnight that liberation was near, and were flown Sunday morning to the San Antonio base to await their turns in Operation Ransom. The other 900 were removed from Principe Prison in Havana later Sunday.

Few on Stretchers

"Chicos, aqui estoy" (kids, here I am), happily shouted Armando Lastra, a boyish looking, young man as he embraced former brigade comrades on the airfield.

A handful of the men arrived on stretchers. Most seemed healthy but they were thin. The food which had been given them, apparently had been unimpaired. One man said it was mostly had rice with some spaghetti at irregular hours.

The Communists did not physically mistreat them, prisoners said but did so mentally, trying to break their spirits by saying they would do one thing and then doing the opposite.

Greeted by Leaders

On hand to greet the prisoners at the air base were Jose Miró Cardona, president of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, and Dr. Antonio Manuel de Varona, both of whom were awaiting sons among the liberated prisoners.

A small army of Red Cross workers, Public Health and Immigration Service officers at Homestead attended to the needs of the men, each of whom was given a welfare check and money for clothing.

The release of the prisoners resulted from the labors of the Cuban Families Committee, which worked for months raising pledges for the ransom and arranging negotiations with Castro.

Their cause was taken up by James Donovan, the New York lawyer who had arranged the U.S.-Soviet swap of U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel. After a series of personal meetings with Castro dating from August, Donovan achieved the final agreement.

The liberated men were members of the brigade which waded ashore at the Bay of Pigs in the darkness of April 19, 1961, hoping to liberate their homeland from communism. Several hundred were presumed killed.

The committee estimated that 1,197 survived and were captured, and of these a few were executed. Some had been sentenced for alleged crimes in pre-Castro days. Six had been ransomed earlier by their parents, and 60 wounded and ill men had been returned for a ransom promise earlier in the year.

TOKYO (AP)—Two Japanese fishing boats with a total of 42 men aboard are missing off the Samoa Islands. Both boats sent distress signals Saturday, saying they had developed leaks in a storm. Deadly Fumes Force Evacuation

GASPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Deadly fumes seeping from a burning railroad car and fanned by high winds forced the evacuation of approximately 500 persons from a five-block area in this Niagara County community Sunday.

State police said carbon bisulfide, a chemical contained in the

New York Central freight car, leaked through a split seam and ignited on an overheated journal box. An explosion threatened for a time.

The fire was discovered by crewmen as the train neared here.

Residents were evacuated, and fire-fighting equipment from Niagara Falls Air Force Base covered the car and surrounding area with foam.

Castro Sets 24-Hours Of Peace With U. S.

BY JOE MCGOWAN JR.

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro observed what he called a 24-hour "state of peace" with the United States today in a jocular accompaniment to the prisoners deal.

Relatives of the freed captives blunted an edge of sadness at not being able to see them before their departure by drinking champagne toasts to their health and future in the United States.

As the swap of 1,113 prisoners captives for food and medicine began Sunday, Castro drove unannounced to the dock where the freighter African Pilot was unloading the $11-million down payment on the deal.

The bearded Cuban leader showed only casual interest in the food and medicine, but he declared the one-day "state of peace" in good-natured jesting with the skipper of the vessel and personally escorted a group of Americans on a tour of Havana.

The fast-driving motorcade paused at a big apartment development so Castro could point out to the visitors a low-rent product of his revolution.

Driving by government buildings, Castro said: "I don't like bureaucracy." Granting a wish of one of the party, Castro conducted the Americans to the home of the late Ernest Hemingway and through the narrow streets of old Havana.

In the party were E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., a Washington attorney who supervised part of the shipping operation, former U.S. Surgeon General Leonard A. Schoer, the African Pilot's skipper, Capt. Alfred Boerum and this correspondent.

Clasping the Americans' shoulders, Castro joshed with them, declaring, "Whatever you want here is yours" and, "Whatever is done for friendship is useful."

The African Pilot steamed into Havana harbor at 2.05 p.m. Sunday after taking on a Cuban pilot and four Cuban Red Cross officials. Not long afterward, the airlift of prisoners to the United States got under way.

"We're up in the clouds," a mother of one of the prisoners told a reporter by telephone. "We are all drinking French champagne."

"My only regret," said another mother, "is that I could not embrace my son before he left." She had not seen him in seven months. A crowd tried to see the captives as they were leaving Principe Prison but officials interfered.

About 25 trucks rolled up to the fortress prison and carried the 900 prisoners held there to the military airport.

Others held on the Isle of Pines off Cuba's south coast were flown to the airport.

Cuban officials promised to try to unload the African Pilot's 1,400-ton cargo in 24 hours.

"We know you want to go back for Christmas so we'll work as fast as possible," an official said.

Japanese Report

Red Nuclear Blast

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese Meteorological Agency announced today it has recorded atmospheric pressures "believed caused by a Russian nuclear explosion of about one megaton strength."

A spokesman said a blast probably was set off shortly before 7 a.m. EST Sunday about 3,600 miles north-northwest of Japan in the Soviet Union's Novaya Zem-Nashville.

The records told of "a long series of suspicious calls" by Larry Campbell, business agent of the Nashville local with Mrs. Paschal's husband, a state highway patrolman.

Miller said there was no question but that Ewing King, president of Nashville Local 327, "made an improper effort to contaminate" Mrs. Paschal through an offer to her husband Mrs. Paschal was dismissed Dec. 6.

Christmas Shows Sad, Happy Faces

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

The festival has many faces. Some are sad. Some are funny. Some are loving and generous. Some are cynical. They are the faces of Christmas.

By deeds and words people traced their imprint on the occasion. It was a mixed image mirrored in little episodes here and there in attitudes, circumstances and incidents.

They found a varied tableau breaking through the general mass mantle of decorations crowded stores singing carols, crowded holiday time off, bulging traffic and parties.

There was the rushing woman shopper in Waterville, Maine, who piled armloads of gift purchases in the back seat of someone else's parked car, then drove home in her own, a similar model.

A newspaper account of the unexplained cargo of packages enabled Mrs. Louis Carey to get them back.

In Providence, R.I., there was the buoyant and benevolent bus driver who veered off his route in a burst of yuletide chivalry to take passengers directly to their destinations.

All Laughing

Most everyone aboard was laughing as the bus rolled on its zig-zag course. The driver grandly puffing a cigar.

A pair of small boys, Peevee, age 7 and Fatty, age 9 got themselves locked in a Cambridge, Mass., department store overnight, in a world of whirling toys and goodies.

Next morning, they were found laden with treasures filled with candy. One was clomping about in a pair of huge new shoes.

There was more than humor in the Christmas conference. There also was the mark of sorrow, the empty chair at the family table and sometimes the slim face.

In Carmichael, Pa., where 37 men died in a coal mine explosion three weeks ago, 65 children are without their fathers this Christmas and 34 wives without their husbands.

Many of the families were going on in their grief, with efforts to observe the day. "Mom said, 'dad would like it that way,'" said Delcie Boyd, 13.

Time for Agony

In Vineland, N.J., it was a time of agony for Mr. and Mrs. William Jones Jr., whose boy, Billy, 3, clad in his blue snowsuit, disappeared Dec. 19.

His gifts lay in the attic. There will be Christmas for the two other small children. "But I won't bring down Billy's gifts," Mrs. Jones said. Unless, unless—

In Philadelphia, a 16-year-old boy will spend Christmas, somberly aware that on the day afterward he will be confined in a youth disciplinary house for an indefinite term.

A court prescribed the prospect because the boy had struck a school teacher. Sentence was deferred until after Christmas.

These are only examples of the admixture of distress that comes, in many forms in many places even amid the festivities. But there are other qualities, too. There is the large heart, the bounty and the tenderness.

Visits Jail

A San Francisco woman reformed and married after years of frequent jail terms for vagrancy or drunkenness visited the jail she once occupied with gifts of costume jewelry, necklaces and fortune candy for all 54 women occupants.

Sheriff Matthew Carberry said she told him she knows too well keep my baby clean and take what it is like to be in jail. "it good care of her," a sightless girl, Thoeni Skyla, murmured.

In Akron, Ohio, Roy Arnold happily

Former Curator Urges War Museum's Repair

WAUPACA — James Carr, 113, legislature convenes in January, and papers including an irreplaceable collection of 700 to 800 original Civil War books.

Carr was the museum curator for about 19 months after July 1, 1918 by the Grand Army of the Republic in honor of the 91,000 Wisconsin veterans who served in the Civil War. Since that time, Wisconsin soldiers served have been added to the museum collection and on many of the historical pictures.

Carr feels the state owes it to the veterans of these wars—and especially to the memory of the Civil War veterans — to preserve the collected relics for future generations. He said the relics are in danger of irretrievable deterioration unless something drastic is done now.

Carr, a veteran of World War I, is a descendant of Civil War soldiers. His grandmother lost her father, husband and two brothers when she was widowed. She had to raise seven children on a $5-a-month pension check.

He helped organize the museum.

Sherwood Scouts, Brownies Fete Children at Christmas Gathering

Youthful voices echoed through the Harrison School auditorium Thursday evening when Sherwood Girl Scouts Troop 266 and Brownies Troop 8 presented a Christmas party for the exceptional children in the town of Harrison.

"This Is Your Night" was the theme for the party which opened with the scouts and Brownies joining in an opening flag ceremony.

Around the lighted Christmas tree, decorated with ornaments made by the Brownies and Scouts, the ordinary and the exceptional child sat and sang Christmas carols together.

The party, which started as a Girl Scout treat, snowballed into a community gesture. Merchandise and donations were contributed by all of the Sherwood business men, the American Legion Post and the Auxiliary unit. A Sherwood teen-age accordion band donated its services. The spirit of giving was contagious.

Movies of the Nativity Story and "The Night Before Christmas" were shown. Floyd Jahnke acted as master of ceremonies.

Scouts and Brownies became Santa's helpers when the jolly old man joined the festivities. Schooled in advance from the letter written to him, Santa Claus obligingly filled the requests.

Gifts, donated by Sherwood merchants, piggy banks made from plastic bleach bottles, and bottles of candy, faced with a Santa Claus and red sock hats, were distributed among the children. Corsages were presented the mothers of the children by Mrs. Hugh Leader, Troop leader.

Refreshments were served by the Scouts and Brownies.

Santa Brought Gifts for everyone at the Sherwood Girl Scout and Brownies' party Thursday evening. Above, John Carney, route 1, Menasha, pins a corsage, received by the mothers, on his wife. At right, Miss Kathy Miller, center in the Scout color guard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Miller, route 1, Menasha, leads the Scouts and their guests in a round of introductions. The party, which began as a Girl Scout and Brownie treat for the exceptional children of the Town of Harrison, turned into a community gesture when the Sherwood merchants, the American Legion Post and its Auxiliary joined the Scouts in preparations for the project.

The next meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 2 at Morgan School.

Keep Frost From Storm Windows

When there isn't enough air moving between the storm and the inside window, moisture is apt to collect.

In new houses, windows usually fit tight so there is little air leakage. See that aluminum or other storms are slotted at the bottom to allow venting. Increasing air movement in the problem area and lowering house temperature are two ways to cut down the moisture collecting on storms.

Excitement, Curiosity and merriment register on the faces of the children as they gather around Santa Claus at the Sherwood Girl Scout and Brownie party Thursday evening at the Harrison School auditorium. A program of caroling, movies and a visit by Santa highlighted the evening for the exceptional children of the Town of Harrison and their parents. (Post-Crescent Photos)

The Night Before

A beautiful room is always ences in rugs, look for paint in most beautiful now, as Christmas eve quiets just before bedtime. At no other time is a room so be loved for warmth, comfort and peace, and for every way it has of belonging so particularly to the family.

The most satisfying room for tonight has a chair big enough to hold at least two while the Christmas story is read once again, and a symbol of the eve of long ago in an honored place. Here a madonna keeps a family tradition, glowing in soft candlelight as it does every year against celestial blue arches and the lustrous wood of an old table.

Mrs. J. C.: "After our twelve-year-old daughter is surprised with the gold-trimmed white furniture she wants for Christmas, we must repaint her walls and buy new small rugs. I think she should decide her color scheme, but would like to limit the colors. I show her to those which would make her room most attractive. What colors should they be? Pink is out because she wants a complete change from the rose that's in the room now. Her bedspread and curtains are white."

Since rug colors are fewer than paint colors, it would be wise to take your daughter to see rugs first. Suggest those in the wonderful new ranges of bright shades, of yellow, medium to deep blues, persimmon and yellow-greens, and patterns with one of these colors predominant. When you know her prefer-

Mrs. C. J. W.: "I scratched our dining table when I scraped off dripped candle wax. Where the knife slipped, one scratch goes through the finish, and iodine won't do to fill in the white line because the table isn't dark enough. What should I use, and how should candle wax be removed without risking scratches?"

Stick preparations made to repair scratched wood are remarkably effective and come in several wood finish colors. Choose the one nearest the right color and apply a very little at first, then a little more if more darkening is needed. Protect wood surfaces from candle wax in every possible way, and one good way is with paste wax—candle wax can often be peeled off the damage resistant surface that builds up with regular paste wax care. If wax must be scratched off, use the side of your thumb nail, gently.

Lined Raincoats

Research Reveals Ways to Cook Recipes Out of Past

NEW YORK (AP) — The most famous Christmas pudding described in English literature is probably the jolly affair at Bob Cratchit's, brought to a close by Tiny Tim's "God bless us everyone."

The menu, you may recall, included roast goose with sage and onion stuffing, mashed potatoes, was gravy, applesauce and a steamed

A house housewife, magazine researcher and writer named Linda Wolfe, intrigued by the problem, went to Mid-19th Century cookbooks, all prodigiously titled volumes: "The Frugal Housewife," dedicated to those who are not ashamed of economy," by Lydia Maria Child; "The Housekeeper's Guide or a Plain and Practical System of Domestic Cookery," by Esther Copley; "Modern Cookery in All Its Branches Reduced to a System of Easy Practice for the Use of Private Families," by Eliza Acton.

Her research into the Cratchit fare is part of her recently published book "The Literary Gourmet" which combines literary selections of complete dinner scenes with Linda's carefully culled recipes for the dishes mentioned.

History of Eating
She takes you from the red pottage of lentil's (Esau's mess of pottage in the Old Testament) through baked meat pie of flesh (Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales") to southern style biscuits to go with John Steinbeck's "Breakfast."

Linda, who has written short stories for literary quarterlies and is now working on a novel, decided to do the book after years of fascination with the way writers revealed a character's personality or portrayed a society or advanced a plot through the use of food.

Many a girl was headed down the primrose path, she discovered in her reading, through the lure of a good meal—sirlon steak in Dreiser's "Sister Carrie" and quail in plumage in Flaubert's "Madame Bovary," for example.

Although she never considered herself much of a cook, Linda set about testing the recipes she found in the numerous old cookbooks she read. The problems were many.

Archaic Names
There was the necessity for translating words no longer in use. How would you cook chicken with grains of paradise? After much research she discovered grains of paradise were cardamom seeds.

Olla Podrida, mentioned in "Don Quixote," a soup stew with an incredible list of ingredients, made so much Linda had to run all over her apartment building borrowing jars. That's when she learned antique recipes were written to feed big families and servants.

And there was the time a friend sent her a partridge (without pear tree) with the explanation "since you're always testing things." She and her long suffering husband, Joe, spent the evening pulling off feathers.

She met Joe over a microscope in biology class at Brooklyn College and they've been married six years. He's an editor of a men's magazine and a good cook.

Women Take Over

Men wrote the cookbooks before the 1700s, Linda says. But when the women started, they did it on a magnificent scale. One favorite of Linda's is Hannah Glaspe, who concocted a good goose type as a "pretty little side-dish for supper?" A pickled tongue inside a fowl, the fowl inside a goose and the goose inside a giant piecrust. "They didn't count calories in 18th Century England."

But of all cookbook writers a 14th century "Good Man of Paris" appeals most to Linda. He was a widower in his 60s who married a 15-year-old girl unable to cook. She exacted a promise from him that he would never embarrass her in front of the servants. Since he couldn't correct her publicly, he put all his admonitions about cooking into a book. And as he pointed out, he wasn't doing it merely for himself, but for her next husband, so he wouldn't think badly of him in not having instructed her properly.

Cheese Gifts
Aged cheeses, festively wrapped, make appropriate gifts for connoisseurs of fine foods. Ripe and cured cheeses keep well in the refrigerator for several weeks be packed in a tightly covered if carefully wrapped. Leave the container.

Pair Weds In Seymour Nuptial Rite

SEYMOUR — The Rev. W. E. Lange officiated at the 7:30 p.m. double ring candlelight ceremony Saturday uniting in marriage Miss Karen Ann Helmke and Ronald Graunke. The service was held at Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Helmke, 216 N. Main St., are parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Corbin Graunke, Seymour.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Melanie Helmke. The bride's cousin, Miss Monica Weis, pointed out, he wasn't doing it merely for himself, but for her next husband, so he wouldn't think badly of him in not having instructed her properly.

Edward Engel, Naperville, Ill., attended as best man. Alfred Zutz, an uncle of the bride, and John Kalcik, both of Green Bay, seated the guests.

A reception and buffet supper was held in the church fellowship hall. The newlyweds will reside at Nelson Hall, Wisconsin State College, Stevens Point, where the bride is employed as head resident.

The couple was graduated from Seymour Union High School. The bride was graduated from Wisconsin State College, Stevens Point, where she was affiliated with Tau Gamma Beta. The bridegroom has been a student at the University of Wisconsin.

Good Neighbor Policy Starts In Neighborhood

Peace in your neighborhood starts with you. It's not limited to the people next door. Your library, your school, your fire and police stations, your grocery store, your place of work are all part of your community.

If you are a good neighbor you will:

- ...visit that new family across the street, see what their needs are, offer help.
- ...get acquainted with the people next door, talk over any problems without getting angry.
- ...keep your yard neat, your house painted, your pets at home.
- ...treat library books with care, return them promptly so that others may use them.
- ...teach your child to respect property, public or private.

Sheinwold Notrump Play Wins On Trumps

If you open up a bridge player's head (which may be a good idea, at that), you will find all sorts of plays filed away in separate compartments. "For Notrump Only," one compartment may be labelled — and that should tell you that you've opened the wrong head. Don't use such labels in your own head.

West opens the king of diamonds, and South wins and draws trumps. South next leads the nine of clubs for a finesse, losing to the jack.

Back comes the seven of spades, and South has his chance to show what kind of head he has. Most declarers would play a low spade from the South hand. West plays the eight or the ten, whichever is needed to force out dummy's queen.

South gets to his hand by ruffing a diamond and continues the clubs by trying another finesse. No luck. East wins with the king of clubs.

Now East leads his other spade, and West takes two spade tricks to defeat the contract. South weeps bitter tears about losing both club finesses, and North assures him he can find sympathy in the dictionary.

If the contract had been notrump, South would have known to play the spades. After losing the first club trick, South would have played the king of spades on East's first spade return.

If West failed to win the trick, South would have only one spade loser. If West captured the king with the ace of spades and returned the jack to knock out dummy's queen, East would be out of spades. Whenever East won his second club trick he would be unable to return a spade.

Playing the king of spades is an entry-killing maneuver, familiar to all notrump declarers. What's not so familiar is the idea that you can and should use notrump plays at trump contracts.

Daily Question

Dealer bids a heart, your partner overcalls one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S Q 6 3 H Q 10 7 D 8 4 3 C A Q 10 6. What do you say?

Answer Bid two spades Raise an overall about as light as you would raise an opening bid. If partner has a mediocre hand for his bid, he will not rely too heavily on your raise; if he has a good hand, he can consider going to game.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

ABSENT GUESTS REMISS

Dear Louise: I mailed our acceptance to a wedding and reception. The day before the wedding, my husband had a heart attack which prevented our attending. I understand now that the bride's parents are "put out" by our absence. I hated to telephone at the last minute of the emergency, knowing that the family would be very busy. Because the reception did not involve dinner, I decided to do nothing. Should I have written a note, and if so, would it be too late now inasmuch as the wedding was a month ago?

Louise Davis Answers:

Even at this late date, I think it would be wise for you to write a note to the bride's mother, but don't mention that you understand that she and the family were offended. Just explain what happened and tell her how sorry you are that you had to miss the happy occasion.

Organization Plus!

Ever count how many minutes you waste looking for scissors, string gummed tape and labels this time of year? Convert a suitcase or a picnic basket into a gift wrapping kit and assemble your needs in it. This can save many hours for you this holiday season.

Or so a very ancient superstition has it. Display a light in the window. The Irish brought the custom to this country. It signifies Godspeed to travelers and accrues good will to the home. Just follow these rules for a Christmas card basket: Cut six Christmas cards the same size. Lay them on paper in a circular pattern. Mark off the hexagon formed within the cards and use as a pattern for your base. Cut base from another Christmas card. Punch holes 1/4" apart around the edges of all pieces, making sure the holes match on adjoining pieces. Using yarn or string, lace pieces together and finish off the top edges. Add a handle of twisted pipe cleaners or strips cut from Christmas cards.

4. For waistband, cut a strip from one edge of the same scarf 20 inches long and 5 inches wide. Fold in half lengthwise, and press. Then, press under all edges 1/4-inch. With border design on the outside, slip band over gathered waistline and top-stitch them together.

5. Cut two more border strips from the same scarf, for ties. 19 inches long and 3 inches wide. Turn under long edges and one end of each strip 1/4-inch and stitch. Slip ends with raw edges into waistband and top-stitch together.

6. For the bib, take the fourth scarf and make a slash 20 inches long starting at one of the corners and cutting down towards the center of the scarf.

7. Turn the slashed edges under 1/4-inch and top-stitch. The outside edges of the scarf can remain as they are since they are already finished.

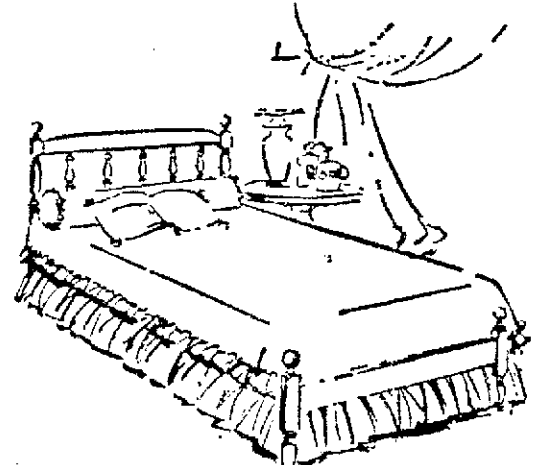

8. On the wrong side of the apron, pin the corner directly opposite the slash to the waistline, with one inch of the corner extending below the waistline seam. Stitch to apron, using waistline seam as guide. Pin top edge of apron waistband to bib. Stitch the two together, 1/4-inch from edge of waistband.

9. Tie apron around your waist, and then tie the slashed ends of the bib around your neck.

Girlish Boy Must Learn to Participate in Male World

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I am a worried father who is appealing to you until he was five. I insisted on a haircut before he started to school.

We have only one child, a son 10 years of age. My wife insists on putting hair-curlers on this boy at night. I think she also puts a bleach in his shampoo water because his hair seems to be getting lighter.

When the boy was younger she dressed him in fussy clothes and put lipstick and nail polish on him. She thought it looked cute. She kept his hair in long curls until he was five. I insisted on a haircut before he started to school.

Now I am seriously concerned because he likes to dress up in his mother's clothes and he'd rather play with girls than boys. Also he likes dolls and pays no attention to trains, trucks or boy-games.

Please tell me what to do before we have a real problem on our hands—Dad

Landers

Dear Dad: You have a real problem now. Children who are treated as if they were members of the opposite sex often grow up to be homosexuals.

Both your wife and your son need professional help. The doctor may suggest adopting a little girl or taking a foster child into your home. Then perhaps your wife would stop trying to make a girl out of her son.

In the meantime you can take him fishing, to ball games and out hiking. Introduce him to the male world and encourage him to be a part of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are hard-working, middle income people. Our five children are grown and married. All of them get along well except our youngest son.

Hal never was able to manage on his income. Five years ago he borrowed a few thousand dollars from his brother to buy a house. Two years later he sold the house, bought a new car and rented an apartment. He never paid his brother back, nor has he ever mentioned the debt.

Last year Hal was evicted for non-payment of rent so we let him live rent free in a home which we own. We even paid his utility bills, but that wasn't enough. Now he is trying to borrow from us again.

The whole family is disgusted with him and I'm so upset I don't know what to do. Do parents have the right to say no to a son who can't seem to make it? — Conscious Stricken

Dear Stricken: Parents not only have the right to say no, they have an obligation. You are in trouble now because you didn't say no long ago. The rent-free bit (plus utilities yet) was no favor, it only delayed the day of reckoning. When Hal finds no one is going to be there with a safety net he'll stop jumping.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter, 21, is graduating from college in June. She and two girl friends are the only ones in their group who are not engaged or married. To listen to them talk you'd think they were ready for the Old Folks Home.

College to them is the Happy Hunting Ground. Failing there, they feel they are doomed to spinsterhood.

It's awful to see these girls so panicky I'm afraid they might settle for anything in trousers between now and June just to prove they can get a man. Do you have any thoughts on this? — San Jose

Dear Jose: The herd instinct is powerful. It takes maturity to keep from settling for a second-rater when you smell the orange blossoms all around you. There is statistical evidence that the girl who waits until she is at least 22 stands a far better chance of enjoying a lasting marriage.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Story for Christmas Reading

What a big joke! Hee-haw! Hee-haw!"

"What do you mean, stupid?"

"Now don't you go calling me names," the offended donkey blared. "I'll have you know I'm the royal animal. Kings used to ride on my back."

"Oh, don't get peeved," the ox scolded. "I wasn't calling you names. I just wanted to know how you figure men are stupid."

And forget that "king" stuff. You know that big-s-h-o-l-s ride in Cadillacs these days."

"All right! All right! I'll tell you. Men are stupid because they forget God. They use all their time and strength earning money, then spend it on pleasures and foolish things, and so they forget God who made them, and who alone can make them happy. They have brains, but think, know, desire everything except God. And they call me stupid!"

The ox said: "Yes. I must say that for once you're right as a news report. Even during Christmas, they think only of money, presents, good times. They bring home Christmas trees, but leave Christ out of Christmas."

"Yeah," the donkey brayed. Christ should be the center of Christmas; but they put Him into a little corner of their hearts, and hardly think about Him. And they are supposed to be smart! Isn't that a laugh. Hee-haw! Hee-haw!"

"I think it's a pity," the ox's low basso replied. "It's what the Lord complained about long time ago: 'Hear, O ye heavens, and give ear, O earth, for the Lord has spoken: I have brought up children and have exalted them; but they have despised me. The ox knows his owner, and the ass knows his master's crib; but Israel has not known me, and my people have not understood."

Ass: "There once lived a man who knew how to celebrate Christmas better than anyone else in the whole world."

Ox: "Oh yes, I think I know who you mean. My great-great-grandfather told me about him."

Ass: "You mean that Eye-tal-ian who was so kind, even to animals!"

Ox: "Yes. I think his name was Francis."

Ass: "Yup! That's the man all right. He hailed from Assisi."

Ox: "I suppose you've heard the story about him?"

Ass: "Oh, I've heard many stories about him. But you mean that Christmas at Gree-Graw! Gree-Graw! Now what was the name of that place?"

Ox: "Greccio, you stupid. . . ! Oh, pardon me, I forgot myself."

Ass: "I guess it doesn't matter. So many call me that, I'm getting used to it. But you're right. It was at Greccio."

Ox: "Yes. I remember that man Francis had a stall built there for an ox and an ass and an altar right near by."

Ass: "And put a life-size doll in the manger."

Ox: "And people came from miles around, from all the surrounding country."

Ass: "Carrying lighted torches. It was such a pretty sight to see."

Ox: "Then a priest celebrated mass."

Ass: "And that man, Francis was the deacon."

Ox: "And he talked so sweetly about Bethlehem and the Child Jesus."

Ass: "And when he picked up the doll baby. . ."

Ox: "It came to life in his arms as he embraced it."

Ass: "That made Greccio seem just like another Bethlehem."

Ox: "And ever since that day people have made cribs, to help them remember how the poor Child Jesus came into this world."

Ass: "It was the start of the Christmas cribs."

Ox: Among our race they speak of the lovely little Child Jesus of that first Christmas so long ago."

Ass: "Our tribe likes to remember the words He spoke as a man: 'Hypocrites' he called the Pharisees, 'Does not each one of you on the Sabbath loose his ox or ass from the manger, and lead it forth to water?'"

Ox: "Yet for all His love and kindness, humans forget what He did for them"

Ass: "But the man Francis was so much like Christ! Why, he even wanted all the animals to have extra food on the Child's birthday!"

Ox: "And he wasn't thinking of the words: 'Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treads out the grain!'"

Ass: "How stupid men are! They want a Christmas without Christ. Hee-haw!"

Ox: "That's why they can't have a really merry Christmas."

The Kids Love It

Disney's 'Castaways' Is Full of Fun for Everyone

BY DAVID L. BROOKER
Post-Crescent City Editor

Even the youngest children don't take "In Search of the Castaways" seriously, but they sure have a lot of fun.

This is supposed to be a kids' picture and it is — no matter how many candles there were on your cake the last time. Walt Disney's version of the Jules Verne fantasy is playing at the Viking Theater. The Viking, like all other Fox Cities movie houses, will not be open tonight, but the show will resume Tuesday and is likely to continue for a while.

The kids come prepared to enjoy themselves. They cheer in anticipation when Disney's name flashes across the screen before the show starts. They get so involved in the adventures and misadventures of a luckless quintet making the search that at one point a pitiful groan goes up from the audience even though the most inexperienced viewer knows perfectly well no producer — not Disney — will permit all the stars to be wiped out in an earthquake when the picture isn't half over.

Their fantastic ride on a "natural" bobsled carved out by Nature in a moment of turmoil is only the beginning. Something has happened to a ship captain and when a note from him turns up in a bottle, his two children (played by Hayley Mills and Keith Hamshere) set out to find him. A French professor (played superbly by Maurice Chevalier) who found the bottle, English lord (Wilfrid Hyde-White) and his son (Michael Anderson Jr.) join the search and the fun.

Along with the earthquake in the Andes and discovering they are looking in the wrong part of the world, the adventurers also manage to get caught in a flood, share their tree refuge with a tiger, escape from a band of savage warriors and get tangled up with some no good gun runners. But, somehow, the two kids who won't let their dad down, the philosophizing professor, the pompous shipowner and his adole-

Pleads Guilty Of Car Theft

Gerald J. McCarthy, 17, son of George McCarthy, 1042 W. Kamps Ave., pleaded guilty to automobile theft after he waived a preliminary hearing in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2 today.

County Judge Gustave Keller ordered a pre-sentence investigation by the state department of public welfare and continued the case until Jan. 14. McCarthy was ordered held in the Outagamie County jail without bond.

McCarthy was one of three youths who stole a car in Appleton after a liquor-drinking party Dec. 7 and went to Indiana where they abandoned the car. The youths hitchhiked to Milwaukee and stole a second car and drove to Illinois where they stole a third car. They were arrested and held by the Illinois state patrol and returned to Appleton by U.S. Marshals.

The three youths appeared in juvenile court, and McCarthy was waived into County Court, Branch 2 by Judge Raymond P. Dohr Thursday.

Prisoners to Spend Holidays With Families

Twenty-two prisoners of the Outagamie County jail, most of them married and working under provisions of the Huber law, will be allowed 10 hours of freedom with their families and relatives on Christmas Day.

County Judge Gustave Keller granted the probation to the men when they appeared in his court today. He asked the men to keep the true spirit of Christmas with them when they began their short stays away from jail.

The men will be released at 9 a.m. Christmas Day and will be returned to cells at 7 p.m.

Prisoners not released for the holiday will have a special Christmas Day menu prepared by jail cooks.

Yule Carols on Organ

Heating Inspector Serenades City Workers With Music of Christmas

BY WILLIAM C. CAREY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

City Heating Inspector Alvin C. Ankensen was doing what comes naturally today — providing city hall employees and visitors with music in keeping with the spirit of Christmas.

Ankensen loves to play the organ, and with an "assist" from the Hammond Organ people, was playing Christmas carols in the lobby throughout the day.

It has been a tradition at city hall for the last three years for Ankensen, who never took a music lesson in his life, to play Christmas music and request of his fellow-workers. During the afternoon groups gather around Ankensen and sing carols.

Straips of "Silent Night," "Silver Bells," "Star of the Evening" and many others greeted city hall visitors during the morning and afternoon. "Some of the folks have their favorites and ask me to play them over and over again; I love to do it,"

Ankensen commented with a gleam in his eyes matching that of Santa Claus himself.

Ankensen recalls he started playing the piano when he was a youngster. The 62-year-old bachelor is a native of Oshkosh, where his father had a candy factory, and has lived in Appleton for the past 30 years.

Put in Full Day

Noting that city employees put in a full day on Dec. 24 (offices don't close until 5 p.m. as per common council policy) Ankensen said he decided a few years back that it would be nice to have Christmas music at city hall during the day.

Other city employees know how to play an organ and take turns playing their favorite selections. It makes for all-around good feeling.

"I like nice, soft music and usually play selections for about an hour every night at my home," Ankensen said. He lives at 1903 N. Harriman St.

"I've been doing a lot of baking and cooking," Ankensen said with a big grin. He had 14 guests over to the house the other night. He expects others during the holiday season.

"If I do say so myself, I baked some fine Christmas cookies this last week," Ankensen said.

Had Old Organ

For many years Ankensen had an old reed organ he used to pump by foot in his home. He obtained it from a Waukegan church. "I got tired of pumping and electrified it to make the music-making easier," Ankensen said.

Seven years ago he purchased a new electric organ and said, "It was the best thing I ever bought."

"One thing about an organ," Ankensen said, "you can play badly and it sounds good."

"On a piano when someone strikes the wrong key you can't stand to listen to it."

Ankensen said he can teach anyone to play the organ in five minutes. His city hall colleagues say it's the truth.

Dr. Lally Resigns After 25 Years on Park Board

Dr. R. R. Lally, a member of efficient service they are rendering," Dr. Lally said.

A dentist, Dr. Lally resides at 716 W. Front St. His term expires Jan. 1, 1963.

Mayor Mitchell had words of praise for the service Dr. Lally has performed for the community since becoming a member of the park board.

"He has been an outstanding public servant and is deserving of special recognition," Mayor Mitchell commented.

No mention was made of a possible successor.

First Man Files For Post on School Board

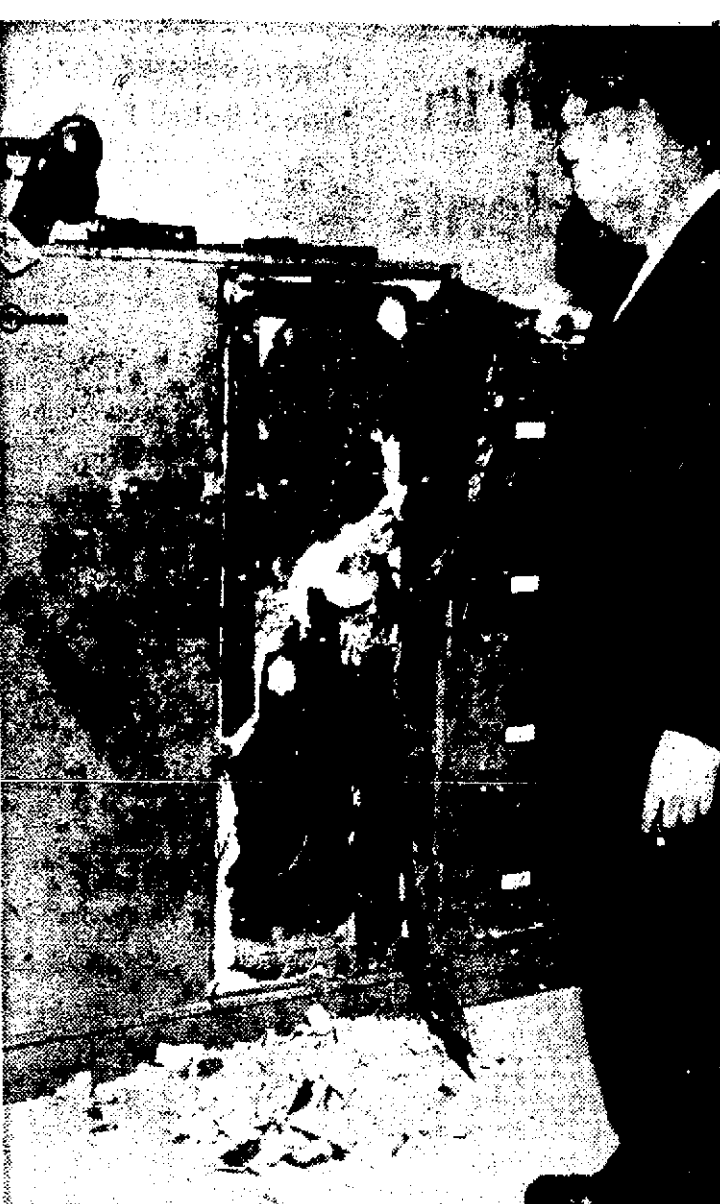

Gerhard Willecke, 1938 S. Bouten St., today became the first person to file nomination papers as a candidate for the Appleton Board of Education in the 1963 Spring election.

Willecke, director of research for Miller Electric Co., will be making his first try for public office.

The terms of three school board members will expire in the Spring. School commissioners serve three-year terms without pay.

City Clerk Elden Broehm said interest in aldermanic posts continue to mount with another request, Robert F. Burmeister, 1010 S. Kernan Ave., taking out nomination papers today. Burmeister, a carpenter, resides in the 13th Ward.

In addition to the school board positions, the terms of 10 aldermen and county supervisors expire next April. Members of the common council receive $1,200 annually, and supervisors get $14 per meeting, including committee sessions.

8 to be Interviewed For Job as Appleton Public Works Chief

Special Board Will Begin Work Jan. 4; 12 Took Test

The eight persons who passed written examinations for the position of Appleton public works director will undergo oral interviews starting Jan. 4, Mayor Clarence Mitchell announced today.

Originally, 12 applicants wrote the test prepared and given by the Wisconsin Bureau of Personnel.

Mitchell said he has appointed a special board to conduct the interviews. It will consist of two representatives of the bureau of personnel and two city residents.

The mayor said he was not a member of the board but would sit in on the interviews. The board will make its recommendation to him. Mitchell is expected to appoint a new public works director the latter part of January. The appointment is subject to common council confirmation.

When Edwin Duszynski left Appleton Oct. 1 to take over as works director in Madison, Henry Crowe, a former city engineer, was appointed acting public works director.

Mitchell also announced the bureau of personnel will conduct written examinations at various state cities Jan. 19 for the 71 persons who have applied for the job of building inspector. Walter Bogan, inspector here for the past 16 years, will retire Feb. 1.

The 71 applications for the job is a record-setter for Appleton.

County Buys Three Trucks

Highway Committee Okays Purchase at Cost of $71,970

Members of the Outagamie County Highway committee have voted to purchase three 42,000 pound gross weight trucks from the Construction Machinery and Supply Co., Inc., of Appleton.

Net price for the Oshkosh four-wheel drive trucks is $71,970 which includes $17,019 trade-in value for three present county units.

Gross price for the three Oshkosh trucks is $88,989. Trade-in value was $5,673 for each of the three present county trucks.

3 Other Bids

Three other bids received by the highway committee were lower, but the trucks did not meet the county's recommended specifications.

One of the three bids, for $59,379, also came from Construction Machinery and Supply Co., but was for a smaller Oshkosh four-wheel drive truck.

The other bidders and their prices were: Walter Motor Truck Co., Voorheesville, N. Y., $69,998, and Public Works Equipment Co., Clintonville (FWD trucks) $63,510.

All bids were for net price for three trucks, including trade-in values.

11 Killed in State Crashes Over Weekend

Wisconsin Total Now 49 More Than This Date in 1961

The holiday traffic death toll in Wisconsin reached 10 today as the state prepared to observe Christmas. And the state total of highway fatalities for the year was 938 compared with 890 on this date a year ago.

One man was killed and two persons injured at 1:30 a.m. today when an automobile skidded on a curve on a Kenosha street, clipped off a telephone pole and uprooted a tree. Dead was Henry Carlson, 23, Racine. Hospitalized were Mrs. Carol Ann Porasik, 22, Racine, who suffered a fractured skull, broken arm and broken leg, and the driver, Manuel Yost, 23, Racine, who escaped with minor injuries.

Stanley Cieslewicz, 63, a resident of Rosholt in Portage County, died Sunday in a Stevens Point hospital of injuries sustained when he fell out of an automobile near Stevens Point Saturday.

William Jones, 28, of Readstown, was killed early Sunday when struck by a car as he helped a companion change a flat tire on a town road near Soldiers Grove in Crawford County.

Edward Schmidt, 35, of rural Markesan, was killed Sunday when his automobile overturned at a curve on highway 24 about eight miles west of Fond du Lac.

The body of Richard Bradshaw, 25, of Arkansaw, Pepin County, was found Saturday evening about 20 feet from his car which had left a hill road about four miles north of the community of Pepin. Authorities said he had left Pepin, where he was employed, late Friday night to return home.

Burglars Beat Hasty Retreat

Leave Without Loot During Break-in at Refrigeration Firm

Appleton police said the burglars hammered on the front of the 1,500-pound safe located in the company's inner offices, and started to peel the outer metal off the safe before they were scared away and left through the back door.

Police said there were no signs of forced entry into the building, and the back door was found open when employees discovered the attempted burglary about 7 a.m. today.

Police are examining several articles left behind by the burglars to obtain possible leads to the burglary.

An attempted break-in at the Matthews Tire Co., 2330 W. College Ave., was reported today to the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department. Sheriff investigators said a window was broken in the rear door but the building was not entered.

Appleton's Apportionment Of Taxes Higher

Grant you it isn't much, but the City of Appleton will get a few hundred dollars more in state income tax apportionment because of a key-punching error at Madison.

State Tax Commissioner John Gronouski disclosed recently that Brookfield and Janesville got $474,000 too much in income tax returns in 1962.

If the excess were spread evenly among all the 1,900 Wisconsin communities it would add about $250 to the total of Appleton and the other municipalities.

Gronouski said the error came about in punching on manually-operated tallying machines in the state tax department.

Kimberly-Clark Employees Secure Six Patents in Paper Production

NEENAH — Six patents on inventions developed by eight employees were assigned to Kimberly - Clark Corp. during October and November.

H. B. Kellogg, 1311 Lehman Lane, Appleton, technical director of Kimberly - Stevens Corp., developed a process to speed up water removal from freshly formed paper webs on the machine. The invention utilizes a gas flame to heat the wet web immediately before passing it through a pressure nip, making the water in the web more fluid for easier removal. Increased drying efficiency is obtained by this process to make faster machine speeds possible.

Lowell W. Zabel, formerly of Neenah and now technical superintendent at Coosa River Newsprint division of Kimberly-Clark, invented an improved apparatus for measuring and controlling the drainage rate of the fiber-water mixture supplied to papermaking machines. The apparatus continuously measures a portion of the mixture and makes automatic adjustments in the supply to obtain a more uniform product.

Paper Machine

An invention relating to an improved device for controlling stock level in pressurized headboxes of paper machines was developed by H. C. Nelson, 661 Stevens St., Neenah, superintendent of the fluid mechanics laboratory at Research and Development.

A substantially friction-free float valve is used to adjust automatically the supply of pressurized air to the headbox in response to the slightest variation in the desired stock level. This provides continuous and automatic control of the stock.

J. J. Kraus, 1539 S. Commercial St., Neenah, assistant chief engineer in manufacturing design, and Keith C. Martiny, 712 Congress St., Neenah, senior engineer, staff maintenance, are two other inventors whose late fall patent has been assigned to Kimberly - Clark. This invention relates to improvement in construction of welded drying cylinders made from metals having such high heat conductivity. The Kraus - Martiny invention minimizes wear by providing an area of harder metal at points where high heat conductivity. The

Three Persons Hurt in Winnebago Accidents

Neenah Girl Receives Knee, Face Injuries

OSHKOSH — Three persons were injured in Sunday accidents in Oshkosh and Winnebago county, making the next to last week-end of the year also one of the year's busiest for police.

Nancy Jacobson, 25, route 2, Neenah, suffered face, knee and ankle injuries when she lost control of her car on ice on N. Clayton Center Road, two miles north of State 150, at 10:30 a.m. Sunday and hit a clump of small trees.

Harry Honsinger, 107A W. 15th Ave., Oshkosh, complained of a sore back and Susan Honsinger suffered bumps and bruises when their car was hit from behind in the 400 block of W. Sixth Avenue at 1:07 a.m. Sunday in a three-car accident.

The mishap occurred when an eastbound car driven by Maurice Letourneau, 19, 920 N. Main St., skidded on ice into the path of a westbound car operated by Robert Measure, 21, 407 Marston Place.

The impact spun Letourneau's car around and pushed it into Honsinger's car which also was headed east.

Winnebago County police reported four accidents Sunday, bringing the two-day total to 22 in the county. Oshkosh police reported five accidents Sunday for a two-day total of 20. Most of the accidents Saturday happened between 2 and 3 p.m.

Trio Added to Winnebago Police Force

OSHKOSH — Three men, from Omro, Menasha and Oshkosh, have been appointed to the Winnebago County Police Department, effective Jan. 2.

Named patrolmen were Patrick C. Sanders, 21, 1498 Racine Street Road, Menasha; Richard E. Dehn, 26, 534 Poygan St., Omro, and Leon E. Woldt, 27, 1725 Sanders St., Oshkosh.

Naming of the trio by the sheriff and coroner's committee raises the patrol's strength to 21 men. Hiring of three additional officers was approved by the county board in October.

Sanders was discharged in October after serving four years in the U.S. Marine Corps. He attended St. Mary High School in Menasha and is married.

Dehn has been chief of police at Omro since June 27, 1960. He spent three years in the army, the last 26 months with the military police in Germany.

He is a 1954 graduate of Berlin High School and is married and has one child.

Woldt is employed at the Kimberly - Clark Corp. Lakeview mill in Neenah. An Oshkosh High School graduate, he also served four years in the marine corps.

In 1952 he won the regional Golden Gloves welterweight boxing championship. He is married and has three children.

Hiring of the additional patrolmen was to increase the shifts for use of the motorcycle purchased by the county.

Schultz estimated damage at $4,000 to $5,000. It was partially covered by insurance. Schultz said that he had parked a tractor in the shop about a half hour before the fire was discovered. The electricity had been checked about a month ago, Schultz said. Seymour firemen were called and fought the fire in near zero weather. The shop is located in the Town of Osborne, four miles south of Seymour. Lost in the blaze was Schultz's complete cabinet making shop which included a number of small tools, about 10 major machines and two tractors stored in the shed.

Teen-Age Driver Unhurt in Crash

CHILTON — The teen-age driver of a car that overturned and snapped off a utility pole along a town road four miles northeast of here escaped uninjured. Roy R. Meyer, 17, route 1, Plymouth, told Calumet County police he lost control of the vehicle on a patch of ice. The car skidded into the left ditch, rolled and hit the pole broadside. It traveled a total of 160 feet after leaving the roadway. The car was demolished.

Clock Watchers Find Big Trouble

AKRON (AP)—Almost half of the city's downtown clocks have been giving passersby a bad time, Akron Junior Chamber of Commerce members learned. Jaycees checked 82 downtown clocks against watches synchronized with Naval Observatory time signals from Washington. Thirty-six were wrong. The clock watchers put a green tag on accurate clocks and a red tag on inaccurate ones.

Legislators See Tax Cut as Means to Boost State Levy

BY JOHN WYNGAARD Post-Crescent Staff Writer MADISON — The news that the Kennedy administration will push hard for a substantial federal tax reduction bill in the new Congress has been received joyfully by statehouse Democrats, for reasons that have no direct relation to the national economy or national politics. If there is an appreciable national tax reduction program enacted, the new Reynolds administration may find it somewhat easier to achieve a higher state tax levy for financing of the new state budget that inevitably will be $100,000,000 or more higher than the present state spending level, according to this reasoning.

As the administration men see it, the majority of voters now measure their tax liability by pay check withholding totals. Both the state and the national treasuries now employ the withholding device. If there is a federal reduction, and a state tax increase, chances will be good that the average wage-earner will pay a lower net income tax during the next year than he is now paying, according to this line of reasoning.

Attorney's Decision

One of the first big decisions of George Thompson of La-Crosse, the attorney-general elect, and a Republican, is whether to continue the John Doe investigation into Milwaukee police and law enforcement affairs that was begun six months ago by Attorney General John W. Reynolds.

Thompson has been given a general briefing of the background and developments of the case. It is thought unlikely that he will suspend the investigation, unless Leroy Dalton of the state staff, in charge, decides on such a course.

Arne Wicklund, a former member of the legislature as a Democrat and now a member of the state highway department staff working in the Superior district office, wants to be appointed to the state highway commission to replace G. H. Bakke, the surviving Republican member whose six year term will expire early in the new year.

Prospects for Wicklund's seating are remote, however, even if he should get a nomination from Gov. Reynolds. Bakke is one of the best known and respected Republicans in the capitol, and he is not likely to have his seat taken away from him by a confirmation vote of the Republican state senate for another.

Assembly Changes

There will be a few changes in key state assembly chairmanships in the 1963 legislature, but not as many as sometimes result from the election of a new speaker.

Speaker Designate Robert Haase of Marinette has not said what he intends to do, but the speculation of informed observers generally agrees that Assemblyman Glenn Pommerening, Wausau, will replace Everett Bidwell of Portage as head of the finance committee. Bidwell probably will get command of the taxation committee.

Assemblyman Elmer Nitschke, Dodge County, is thought likely to get the gavel of the highways committee of the house, replacing Hugh Harper, Grant County. Richard Peterson, Clintonville, will retain the judiciary committee, second only to the finance committee in importance, and Paul Alfonsi, Minoqua, again will lead the conservation committee because it is his major field of interest, according to current impressions.

Preliminary appraisals from key members of the new legislature indicate that there is a

Dancer Eleanor Powell Starts Career Again

Former Star to Make Television
Debut on Perry Como Show Dec. 26

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"It's nothing. Egged on by her son, Eleanor chance for the second time underwent nine months of intense around. That's why I'm having sive tap and ballet lessons, the time of my life."

This was Eleanor Powell at 50 a svelte 122. When she returned to sitting on top of a whole new Las Vegas, she went in triumph. career. The night after Christmas she will make her television dancing debut with Perry Como. She is drawing top salaries in Las Vegas and other show spots. And she is planning a concert tour that will take her through the United States and Europe.

Not bad for a star who didn't dance for 14 years.

Well Remembered
"It's the greatest feeling in the world to be able to come back and find an audience still waiting," she said. "I thought they would have forgotten by now."

"But they haven't. They seem to have an emotional response to what I have done. When I finish my act and go around the tables shaking hands, many of them are crying. It's the same way with other performers who came back stage to see me. Some of them are so emotional they can't speak."

"They seem to be glad that I made it back."

The Eleanor Powell story would indicate that stars never fade. Hailed as the greatest female tap dancer, she was a hit on Broadway and then starred in a string of glittering MGM musicals such as "Born to Dance," "Rosalie," "Lady Be Good" and "Broadway Melodies" of 1936-37-40.

Quit in 1947
After the birth of their son, Peter, she worked only once — in 1947 to raise $30,000 for down payment on a house she and her husband, Glenn Ford, wanted to buy. She played six weeks at the London Palladium and in Scotland, then quit entirely.

Then two years ago her marriage broke up.

"It was Christmas time and I was pretty shaken up," she said. "Peter suggested that we get out of town for Christmas. He thought we might go up to Las Vegas."

Pearl Bailey Helps
They saw every show in town. At each show the stars introduced Eleanor from the audience as one of the show business greats. Pearl Bailey got her up onstage for a few taps. Later she told Peter that it was his duty to see that his mother returned to perform.

Las Vegas, she went in triumph. "I'm dancing better than I ever did before," she says, and she intends to go on doing so.

He is especially proud of two of his publishing house's accomplishments:

1. The publishing in 1922 of a volume called "The Meaning of Relativity," by a little-known mathematician named Albert Einstein.

2. The publishing in 1951 of a book, "The Pylos Tablets," which no man on earth could read because it was the transcription of an unknown language found on a clay tablet in Greek ruins. It was published in the hope that some scholar might decipher it. Three years later an Englishman did just that, providing historians with a major breakthrough in the study of the Minoan civilization in Crete.

Publisher Attempts To Make No Profit

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—Herbert S. Bailey runs a corporation here that does an annual business of $1.5 million. His guiding principle is: Never make a profit.

Bailey is director of the Princeton University Press, and says his job is to serve the academic world by publishing scholarly books — regardless of how they sell.

Dr. Molner Erred in Trench Mouth Advice

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

A number of dentists, as well as dental hygienists and even medical students tell me I erred in some remarks that I published concerning Vincent's angina, or "trench mouth," and I hasten to set the record straight.

My error, they assert, was in attributing the spread of the ailment (which can be a serious one if neglected) to such things as kissing and the use of common drinking cups.

This is not so, they assert, basing their view on the fact that attempts by researchers to give the disease deliberately from one person to another have not succeeded, and that it is extremely difficult to grow the germs except in the mouth.

Trench mouth germs, in the words of one communication, are "transmissible but not communicable," meaning that you can transfer the germs (of which there are several varieties) but cannot automatically give the disease thereby. It adds that the germs can be found in the mouths of 90 per cent of us—but not the disease.

So I guess I'd better withdraw the remark about drinking cups and kissing. (There are other reasons for getting rid of the old community drinking cup, however, and as for kissing, I've never felt that opposition to it on my part would have any effect, even if I were so disposed. And I'm not.)

Localized Outbreaks

In any event, back in the days when I was a director of School Health Services, we often noted that outbreaks could occur in localized fashion, in a class, a school or dormitory. We made hundreds of laboratory cultures of the germs, and found them to be present in healthy mouths as well as in mouths of people with the disease—but more prevalent in the latter, which is not surprising, of course.

We also noted that other factors seemed to be involved: Some lowering of general physical resistance to infection, and maybe some psychosomatic elements, because there would often be more trouble during periods of strain, such as during examination week.

The basic treatment today is the same as that in the days when I had a good deal of contact with the disease: Cleaning up the infected areas of the gums, removing debris whether trapped food particles or calculus (tartar) along with the use of a foaming agent—hydrogen peroxide or sodium perborate.

Where the infection has had a chance to penetrate more deeply into the tissues, penicillin is used, but I am told by dental experts that this or other antibiotics will not permanently end the trouble unless the cleaning-out process also is performed.

Treated promptly, Vincent's angina can be cleared up in a short time, say two or three weeks. Neglected, it can lead to loss of teeth and the infection can spread to other tissues of the mouth area.

So however it manages to attack, the basic burden of my song remains the same: Don't dawdle, and don't try to treat it all by yourself. Get dental care.

Cause of Bunions

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes bunions? Some say from wearing shoes that are too tight, too short or too wide. What do you say?—MRS. J.C.

Tight shoes, yes; short shoes,

yes. Too wide? No. A bunion is an irritation of a joint, usually the big joint of the big toe. People who go barefoot don't get bunions. Neither do people who wear shoes that are too wide. There has to be pressure that forces the joint out of normal position.

Dear Dr. Molner: We are cheer leaders for our high school's basketball team. We recently heard that such strenuous activity might ruin the female reproductive organs. Is this true?

No, it won't harm a thing—where do all these fantastic scare stories come from, anyway? (Copyright, 1962)

Concentrate on Proper Things To Cure Talking Out of Turn

Students ask many questions about school and study. At a recent talk to a junior high assembly I was deluged with them. Here are some sample questions:

An eighth-grade girl: "How can I stop talking so much?"

It depends on what you think about while the teacher or another student is talking. You have been thinking of what you are going to say as you would in a conversation. Instead, you should study what is being said and try to understand it. Picture in your mind the ideas they are presenting. If you don't plan to talk you won't.

A ninth-grade boy: "Why do I write on an unlined paper my writing goes down hill. How can I overcome this?"

I start thinking of other things, not what I am supposed to be studying. It takes only about one-third of your thinking space to read words. The rest will not stay blank. You have been letting noise or music fill it. Without the noise or music there, the other thoughts rush in.

Learn to use all of your thinking for the study at hand. Decide what you are going to find out by reading before you start, then STUDY what you are reading as you read. If your mind still wanders, try reading faster.

A seventh-grade girl: When I write on an unlined paper my writing goes down hill. How can I overcome this?"

Take a fresh piece of unlined paper and write a sentence across the top of the paper. Fill the page with repeats of this same sentence.

After you have written it twice you will be able to turn your attention to how you are writing and train your hand to write straight across the page.

Writing properly calls for repeated exercise just as playing the piano or learning to play golf.

An eighth-grade girl: Is it better to study vocabulary at night or in the morning?

The best results can be obtained by studying vocabulary at both times.

Make vocabulary the last thing you study at night. Picture the meaning of each word; say the word aloud several times so that your ears become accustomed to hearing it at the same time your mind brings up the picture.

Recall the meanings of the new words the first thing in the morning, even before breakfast. This scheme has proved successful for every student who has tried it.

A ninth-grade boy: Can you give some advice on learning the new geometry?

I assume you mean the approach to geometry through the use of the mathematics of groups. (And I congratulate you, since you must be in an accelerated class to be studying geometry in the ninth grade.)

Try to understand each idea in words. Listen to your teacher and read your book determined to understand what is said. Memorizing procedures for use on tests will prove of little value.

Neenah Firm Says Siding Curvatures Can't be Changed

MENASHA—Marathon, a division of American Can Co., has filed an application with the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin for exemption of the State Administrative Code requiring certain clearances for curved tracks.

Marathon is expanding its train shed at Neenah and plans to relocate an existing 31-foot-wide door and provide an additional two-car spot. Marathon, in the application, said that the curvatures of the siding cannot be changed due to the limited railroad yard area.

The rule requires clearance ranging from 14 feet to 15 feet for curved tracks, depending upon the degree of the curvature.

A public hearing on the application will be held at 2 p.m. Jan. 3 in room 686 in the state office building, Madison.

Restaurants, Hotels Fear New IRS Rules

Many Say Change of Expense Account Laws Will Ruin Them

BY JACK LEFLER
NEW YORK (AP)—Many restaurant and hotel operators are raising cries of anguish over the government's new expense account tax deduction rules. Some claim they could be put out of business or badly hurt. Others are taking a wait-and-see attitude until the Internal Revenue Service clarifies regulations under which the 1962 tax law will be enforced. A few expect to benefit. All are aware that IRS Commissioner Mortimer Caplin—the nation's income tax collector—has said: "I think expense account living is a thing of the past. The government's intention is to stamp out what it considers illegitimate deductions for lavish expenditures. In the face of a storm of objections, to some proposed regulations, Caplin promised at a hearing in Washington that the original stringent rules will be modified. He carried this theme a bit farther at a tax seminar in New York City this week, saying the final rules will be "fair and reasonable." He stressed that the government isn't telling businessmen what or how to spend but what can be deducted. As for contentions that curtailment of expense account business will cause some restaurants to close, Caplin said: "I hope it isn't so. We have met with businessmen and have tried to accommodate our rules to their feelings." But the extent of the modification worries hotel, restaurant and theater men. Their objections are mainly against a requirement for substantiation by detailed records of which the 1962 tax law will be enforced. A few expect to benefit. Caplin said an increase to $25 is being considered. "It will damn near put us out of business," said George Eddy, co-owner of Eddy's Restaurant, a Kansas City night club. "Many people will just stay home rather than go through all that rigamarole of detailed accounting. Many of our customers have told me so." On the other hand, Washington, D.C. hotel man thinks the new rules will help his dining room and bar business. Sign Check "The convention-goer who used to go out to a lunch counter for a 30-cent hamburger—and then put a $12.50 hotel dinner on his expense account—can't get away with it now. To have a record of his meal costs, he'll have to eat the $12.50 dinner and sign the check," he explained. In New York City—one of the

Pleasure Boating Boom to Continue

Increased Ownership Forces Some Crafts Into States Border Waters

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The boom in pleasure boating on the "big waters" bounding the state will continue indefinitely, the state department of resource development observes in a summary of Wisconsin marine activity contained in its annual report. The increasing ownership of larger pleasure boats, and the competition for space on the smaller inland waters, have pushed many boaters to the roomier waters of Lake Michigan, Green Bay and the Mississippi river, the department found. It estimated that of the 120,000 Wisconsin families who own boats, about a fourth use them at least part of the time on boundary waters, principally Lake Michigan and the Mississippi. The department report sketched continuing expansion of facilities for commercial shipping from Wisconsin lake ports, and estimated about $15,000,000 in public and private spending for Wisconsin harbor improvements during the last five years. The department suggested a study of the waterfront land use problems in Wisconsin harbor communities. The demand is rising for waterfront land by industries that ship by water, it was said. The agency also concluded that the Wisconsin commercial fishing industry, which once prospered in Great Lakes ports, is fast dying. Where once there were several hundred boats in the Wisconsin fishing fleet, there remain only about 30. It said recent developments in trawling for lower grade fish for use in animal feeds, and new fishing methods to prepare small-fish species for human consumption, appear to offer the "best short term hope" for the Great Lakes fishery.

Hitchler Determined To Play in Shrine Tilt

Missouri End Has Broken Nose From Bluebonnet Bowl
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—If he has to, Missouri end Conrad Hitchler will fight his way into Kezar Stadium Saturday to play in the 38th annual Shrine East-West football game. Hitchler suffered a broken nose when the Tigers upset Georgia Tech 14-10 in the Bluebonnet Bowl Saturday. The West end was taken to a Houston hospital for major facial surgery. "I'll play and that's official," Hitchler told a newsman here from his hospital bed. "My doctor advised against it, but I'm going to disobey. I feel like fighting wildcats." Later, West coach Dan Devine of Missouri announced Hitchler would see defensive action wearing a birdcage faceguard. Hitchler is expected in the Stanford practice camp Tuesday. End Troubles The East also is having end troubles. Second team All-American Tom Hutchinson from Kentucky reached for a 40-yard pass from Notre Dame's Daryl Lamonica Sunday and pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg. No one at the Santa Clara camp knew whether Hutchinson would play Saturday. Just in case he can't, Syracuse halfback John Mackey was moved to end, where he played the first six games for the Orangemen. The East could add another player if Purdue coach Jack Mollenkopf so desired. It's been done before. The East has switched George Saimes, Michigan State All-American, to halfback. Purdue's Roy Walker moved to full. "Saimes at 5-foot-10, 185 pounds, is more the halfback type, while Walker, at 215, has more drive and suits the fullback spot on this

Yule Season

But in this season, originally and rightfully dedicated to things of the spirit rather than of mammon, it is well to be thankful that the nation isn't faced with the Cuban crisis today as it was at its outset. And it's good that men's thoughts can be on something other than a fear of an imminent recession the way they were a few months ago. It's also all to the good that Americans can gather in this season in family groups and renew what is its greatest strength—the American spirit, which has risen above the crises, whether they be international or national, political or economic. For that reason, if for no other, this week's pause in the daily preoccupations will be worthwhile. But as always, the general good are all settled by any means or fortune doesn't mean that all is well with everyone. Some cities, some industries, some workers are tied up in strikes and layoffs. Some four million persons who want to work haven't jobs, either have a merry Christmas.

Growth Rate

Pessimists who say we are falling perilously behind probably are as wrong as optimists who think all is as good as it should be. The American spirit doubtless will tackle the problems as they arise, to confound the pessimists. And the same spirit doubtless will prove the complacency behind the times if they think today's growth rate sufficient. If the international crises seem less pressing at this particular season, it doesn't prove that they are all settled by any means or fortune doesn't mean that all is well with everyone. Some cities, some industries, some workers are tied up in strikes and layoffs. Some four million persons who want to work haven't jobs, either have a merry Christmas.

Decision Puzzles Fans

Haynes Didn't Understand The Option, Says Stram

HOUSTON (AP)—Football fans across the nation were puzzled Sunday when Dallas, despite winning a coin toss, kicked into a 14-mile wind to start the sudden death playoff during their 20-17 victory in the American Football League championship game against Houston. Abner Haynes, Dallas halfback, made the kickoff decision to the surprise of a packed stadium and of the field most favorable to the Oilers. "The players were excited and tugging at Abner," Stram said. "He just didn't understand the option. It was a mistake you don't like to make but there's no use crying over it." Stram said Dallas decided to kick off because its defense had been doing well and its kicking in-game had caused concern.

Average of $394.70 Spent to Educate Public School Pupils

WASHINGTON (AP)—It cost an average of $394.70 to educate a public school pupil during 1962, the magazine School Management reported Saturday. In its annual "Cost of Education Index," the magazine said an average of $335 per pupil was spent for instruction, $14.70 for transportation, and $45 for school construction. The magazine said Illinois spent an average of $345 per pupil for public education, not including transportation or school construction. Wisconsin and Indiana also spent $345 and Iowa and Missouri spent $323. School Management also reported that the average school district has increased its expenditures by $77 per pupil above the average for a three-year base period, 1957-1959. It said, however, that $41.50 of this, or 55 cents of every dollar, was eaten up by inflation. Teacher salary increases are keeping only slightly ahead of inflation, the magazine said.

Leading Cage Teams Set for Tournaments

Cincinnati Clicks Off 26th Win In Succession

BY BEN OLAN Associated Press Sports Writer Several of the nation's leading college basketball teams run smack into the heavy holiday tournament schedule this week. But it's likely to be a real holiday for the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats.

While shun of the top ten teams are engaged in tournament competition and three others have two games booked, the Bearcats play only once. They go against Ohio University, 3-3 Saturday.

Fourth-ranked Chicago Loyola takes on Arkansas in the opening round of Oklahoma City's All-College Tourney Wednesday. Mississippi State, No. 5, meets Houston in the Sugar Bowl Tourney Friday. Colorado, No. 6, plays Kansas Wednesday in the Big Eight Tourney at Kansas City and 10th-ranked Seattle faces California Thursday in the Far West Classic at Portland.

Holiday Festival West Virginia, rated seventh, and Illinois, No. 8, move into Madison Square Garden for the Holiday Festival Wednesday. The Mountaineers play Boston College while Illinois hooks up with unbeaten Pennsylvania.

Meanwhile, Kentucky, ranked ninth, has regular games with Dartmouth and Notre Dame. Duke, No. 2, faces Princeton and Wake Forest while Ohio State, No. 3, hits the road to meet Baylor and Wichita.

The Bearcats had an easy time last Saturday night while rolling up their 26th consecutive triumph and eighth this season with a 72-46 conquest of Davidson.

However, three top-ranked teams—Colorado, West Virginia and Seattle—were defeated.

Colorado lost to Arizona 60-52. Kentucky edged West Virginia 79-73 in the finals of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament and Loyola lost to Arizona 60-52.

Packers Had to Play Harder at More Emotional Pitch Without Hornung

BY JOHN P. CARMICHAEL Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — A gentleman has insisted that we take the Giants and three points against the champion Packers next Sunday. And, in the spirit of adventure, we might do it.

For one thing, the game will be played in New York. For another, the Giants surely will be motivated by great desire for revenge.

But, for a third thing and maybe most important, The Packers of late November and December aren't the men of October.

Even without Paul Hornung, this was a devastating October team building up an insurmountable lead with the fire and momentum from the 1961 campaign.

Reaction Set In Then, as might be expected reaction set in. Not too glaringly, perhaps, but enough to indicate the champs might have been enervated by the unending pressure. "Let us put it this way," said a Packers aide. "Without Hornung we had to play harder and at a

Badgers, Trojans Get Down To Serious Rose Bowl Drills

Wisconsin Players Regain Good Spirits After Tiresome Trip

BY DAVE O'HARA

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Southern California and Wisconsin, a couple of football teams with reputations to uphold, got down to serious business today for the Rose Bowl meeting New Year's Day.

The Trojans, rated the nation's No. 1 power after 10 straight victories this season, went behind closed gates to prepare for the invasion of the Big Ten champions from Wisconsin.

The Badgers, edgy and anxious from work after a tiring trip to Pasadena, planned a two-hour muscle-flexing workout for West Coast observers before hanging out a "no visitors" sign for the last six practice sessions.

"It will be an all-out no holds barred work out," coach Milt Bruhn promised Rose Bowl officials—and his Wisconsin charges. "Then we have to ask cooperation for privacy the rest of the way."

Bruhn and Southern Cal coach

John McKay gave their squads a day off Sunday. The Trojans enjoyed a day of relaxation, but Bruhn was unable to check the travel weary Badgers the entire afternoon.

Impromptu Jogging

The Badgers, rated just behind Southern Cal in The Associated Press poll after an 8-1 campaign, found a day of mere sightseeing too much to take. They finished by doing some impromptu jogging—without a football—to rid themselves of "plane" legs.

Bruhn remained behind for a hotel room huddle with his staff when the Badgers left for visits to Pacific Palisades, Marineland, the Southern Cal campus and the Rose Bowl.

He said the team was "anxious to get back to practice" and was "ready for the job" Jan. 1. Wisconsin's 44-man traveling squad arrived at Pasadena more than four hours late Saturday because of plane trouble and national weather conditions which delayed a chartered flight from Madison. The players were in an unhappy mood despite smiles flashed for the official welcome by tournament of roses queen Nancy Davis and six princesses.

A good dinner and several hours sleep changed things. There were plenty of smiles—unforced. McKay spent some time reviewing the projected pro tour with Low Hoard and Ken Rosewall starting in Sydney Jan. 5.

Also the controversy was stoked when Ken Rosewall, visiting Brisbane Sunday, disclosed detailed financial arrangements for the tour. He said he and the other pros were taking a cut down the line to meet Laver's contract.

The Sydney Morning Herald's tennis writer Alan Clarkson said the incident was a "farce for amateur tennis" and added he would be surprised if the LTAA took any action. Other reporters also raised the professionalism issue but both Laver and Harry Hopman, the Australian captain, insisted no contract had been signed.

Rosewall said he was being cut from 20 per cent of the receipts to 15 per cent and that Hoard was accepting a reduction from 17 to 15 per cent with the other pros absorbing similar slices in their paychecks.

There wasn't another Green Bay ball carrier in the first 15 of the National League, whereas a year ago Hornung was No. 13, with 600 yards in 127 attempts, in addition to his specialty of blocking.

Without the double-barreled threat of Hornung and Taylor carried 243 times for 1,307 yards in 1961, this fall he carried 272 times for 1,474 yards.

Thus, his average was better in '62, but his effort had to be greater without the complement of Hornung.

Most of its scores will attest to that. Greater Effort Yet of late, the points and yardage were harder to come by. Jim Taylor, the Packer fullback, carried 243 times for 1,307 yards in 1961, this fall he carried 272 times for 1,474 yards.

Without the double-barreled threat of Hornung and Taylor carried 243 times for 1,307 yards in 1961, this fall he carried 272 times for 1,474 yards.

Little Chance Of Any Action Against Laver

Professional Plans Flaunted Prior to Davis Cup Matches

BRISBANE, Australia (AP)—A ruckus was raised today over Rod Laver's right to play Davis Cup tennis in view of the flagrant flaunting of his professional plans but indications were that there would be no official action.

The Mexicans said they planned no protest and the bigwigs of the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia, who would deal with such matters, shrugged their shoulders and looked the other way.

So despite howls of "farce" and "flagrant professionalism" the Australian left-hander, who scored the second grand slam in history this year, will be in the line-up for the Australians when they go against Mexico in the Davis Cup challenge round Wednesday.

Listed in Program

The Sydney Daily Telegraph said that a professional program listing Laver already had been printed for the projected pro tour with Low Hoard and Ken Rosewall starting in Sydney Jan. 5.

Also the controversy was stoked when Ken Rosewall, visiting Brisbane Sunday, disclosed detailed financial arrangements for the tour. He said he and the other pros were taking a cut down the line to meet Laver's contract.

Texans Beat Oilers, 20-17, In Second Overtime Period

Brooker's 25-Yard Kick Snaps Tie

BY MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—A slight drizzle ticked off Tommy Brooker's helmet. The clock showed 2 minutes, 54 seconds of the second sudden death overtime period had elapsed. The opposing lines tensed as the ball was snapped back. Len Dawson put the ball down on the 25-yard line stripe.

Brooker kicked and the Dallas Texans were the champions of the American Football League with a 20-17 decision over Houston's two-time titlists in the longest game in professional football history that came replete with a Fred Merkle type boner.

The game turned out to be a three-part production. Dallas won the first half 17-0. Houston took the second half by the same score. Then they went to the finale before an overflow crowd of 37,981 and a national television audience.

Dallas won the toss at the start of the overtime and it was Abner Haynes' decision to make on whether to receive, kick off or take the option of selecting the favorable end of the field. Inexplicably Haynes have the Oilers the first advantage without a second ticking off when he elected to kick off.

That gave Houston the kickoff plus a 14-mile per hour at its back. Dallas coach Hank Stram said he had wanted to kick off since his defense had been strong, but wanted the favorable wind.

Unable to Capitalize

Fortunately for the Texans, the Oilers were unable to capitalize on the situation. As a matter of fact neither team could as they played out the 15-minute overtime session and went into round 2. Houston made its most serious penetration before the tide turned.

Bill Hull intercepted a George Blanda pass after the Oilers had moved to the 35. Hull lugged it back 23 yards. A Len Dawson pass to Jack Spikes gained 10. Spikes rambled 19 to the Houston 19 and the Texans were in range. Brooker then booted the winner.

The game goes into the books as the longest game in pro annals and only the second sudden death championship game on record. Baltimore defeated New York 23-17 in the 1958 National Football League title game, scoring the winning TD after 8:58 of the first overtime.

Quarterback Blanda said Dallas roared to its 17-0 lead because "we were probably keyed up too high and a little sluggish." Then he added, "Dallas was a conservative team. If we played it that conservative, we would never score."

Blanda, who had a field goal attempt blocked that would have won it in regulation time, said, "That field goal was going straight for the uprights and would have been good. I just know it would, it felt good. There's no way I could have missed."

Brooker didn't and he was just as confident. "It never occurred to me it would miss. I was right up next to the goal. There's no way I could have missed."

Oilers Favored

Houston was a 6½-point favorite to keep its AFL monopoly going in the third year of the league's existence, but passes by Dawson, AFL player of the year, and fine running by Spikes, McClintock and Haynes led the Texans to their 17-0 lead.

After Brooker kicked a 16-yard field goal in the first period, Dawson passed 28 yards to Haynes to Cap an 80-yard drive. Haynes scored again from the 2 after Dave Grayson intercepted and returned 20 yards to the Houston 29. Blanda's second half magic was backed by an aroused Oiler defense.

Big 10 Teams Plunge Into Holiday Activity

Conference Has 37-30 Record Against Outside Foes

Big Ten basketball teams, getting wallowed with unaccustomed regularity by intersectional foes, plunge into holiday tournament activity this week before settling down to the opening of the conference campaign Jan. 3.

By the time the conference race begins, Big Ten teams could very easily have a losing record against outside competition. Currently the Big Ten has a record of 37 victories and 30 losses for the season.

This advantage, however, could be wiped out this week since most of the Big Ten teams will be away from home where the losses pile up quickly.

Only Ohio State, Illinois and Michigan can point to their records with pride. Ohio State 6-0 and Illinois 5-0 are undefeated and Michigan has a 7-1 mark.

Five Fell

These three produced victories last Saturday night while five other conference teams fell in defeat. Ohio State slugged Detroit 101-66; Illinois squeezed by Oklahoma, 93-90, and Michigan defeated Texas A&M, 82-79. In the losing games it was Oregon State 61, Iowa 55; Kansas 62, Northwestern 57; UCLA 77, Wisconsin 63, Utah State 102, Michigan State 87, and Arizona State 98, Minnesota 79.

Minnesota, which is a solid contender for the conference crown, won its first three games at home and then lost four straight on the road. The Gophers will find the going tough this week since they play at Wichita Thursday and at Drake Saturday.

Illinois, Iowa, Northwestern and

Wisconsin will play in various tournaments throughout the country. Illinois will be in the New York Festival, Iowa journeys to the Far West Classic and Northwestern plays in the Los Angeles Classic. Wisconsin will engage in a tournament in Milwaukee.

Purdue vs Yale

Purdue will be home Thursday against Yale and the eastern invaders will play at Michigan Saturday. Ohio State is at Butler Thursday and at Wichita Saturday while Michigan State goes to Hawaii to play three games against service teams.

In addition to Ohio State, Illinois and Michigan, only Wisconsin can show an advantage in pre-conference competition. The Badgers, who finished second last season, have a 4-3 record and have not been playing the brand of ball expected from one of the league's top contenders.

Indiana has won three of eight games while Minnesota and Purdue are both 3-4. Iowa has a 2-4 record, Northwestern 2-5 and Michigan State 1-5.

Y. A. Tittle Selected NFL Player of Year In Sporting News Poll

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Quarterback Y. A. Tittle of the New York Giants has been named National Football League player-of-the-year in the annual Sporting News poll.

Tittle, 36, was picked by a panel of 14 football writers in the NFL who was selected over fullback Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers.

Halfback Ronnie Bull of the Chicago Bears was named the national sporting paper's rookie-of-the-year.

'A Tremendous Team Effort,' Declares Stram

Ivy Says Oilers Missed Chances In First Half

HOUSTON (AP) — "It was a tremendous team effort."

That was the way head Coach Hank Stram of the Dallas Texans explained his team's 20-17 sudden death victory over the Houston Oilers for the American Football League championship Sunday.

While the victory-celebrating Texans poured champagne over his head in the dressing room, Stram said: "This was the greatest team effort I have ever seen."

"This team never gave up," he shouted. "They just stayed in there and fought."

17-Point Lead

Halfback Abner Haynes, who scored two touchdowns in the first half when the Texans built up a 17-point lead, explained it this way: "We were just ready for them this time."

The Texans' slashing fullback Curtis McClintock said, "We just wanted the championship...we waited three years."

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy, whose Oilers were stopped in their effort to pick up a third straight AFL title, said it was a "Story of missed opportunities in the first half for Houston."

"It was a tremendous comeback job but not being able to capitalize on opportunities in the first half was the difference," he said.

Discuss Field Goal

In discussing the field goal that was the margin of victory in the overtime, Ivy said: "These things can go either way during overtime. We had an opportunity earlier in overtime but couldn't cash in on it."

Veteran quarterback George Blanda also blamed missed opportunities for the Oilers' loss.

In accounting for Dallas jumping off to a 17-point lead before Houston scored, Blanda said, "we were probably keyed up too high and a little sluggish."

He said Dallas "made few mistakes."

"Dallas was a conservative team," he concluded. "If we played it that conservative, we would never score."

Cold Limits Packer Drill To 40 Minutes

GREEN BAY AP) — The Green Bay Packers, wearing gloves, face masks and heavy clothing, went through a 40 minute workout in 10 degree weather Sunday before taking a two-day Christmas recess.

Coach Vince Lombardi had scheduled a practice session of at least an hour in preparation for the National Football League championship game with the Giants at New York next Sunday.

However, after bucking the biting cold and a 20-mile wind, the coach called off the session. The players again wore tennis shoes to avoid slipping on the frozen turf.

The Packers will resume practice Wednesday and also will work out Thursday and Friday before heading east.

ing films of Wisconsin games. He said that one of the Trojans' biggest jobs will be to stop All-America end Pat Richter, who at 6-foot-4 is a favorite target of quarterback Ron VanderKelen.

"I don't know what we're going to use on him—maybe a gun," McKay said.

"Everyone feels a little better today after a good night's rest," Bruhn said as his charges left on a Sunday afternoon sight-seeing tour. "It was a long wait, but we made it here and we're ready for the job."

"It was a long, tiring journey and we can use this day of rest before getting into some hard work," said Co-Captain Pat Richter, Wisconsin's All-America end, whose six-foot-six frame was cramped on the flight from Madison.

"Blessing in Disguise"

Bruhn admitted that the day of "could be a blessing in disguise." He noted that the players awoke early Saturday morning, had a long wait for a plane in Madison and then landed in nearby Burbank, hungry, tired and a little irritated.

"They can use this relaxation, but they are anxious to get back to practice," Bruhn said. "They tell me they're riding planes and buses so much that now they want to do some running. They'll get it, too."

The Badgers arrived Saturday some four hours later than weather delayed their chartered plane. As things wound up, some 25 members of the "official" party, including wives of the coaches and publicist Jim Mott, had to settle for a flight aboard another plane, hurriedly supplied in Chicago, and arrived in Pasadena three hours later than the team.

"It was snowing when we finally left Chicago and we didn't know if we would ever get here," Mott said.

The Badgers' delay took some of the glamor from the usual welcoming ceremonies planned by the Tournament of Roses committee. At a poolside greeting in Pasadena, the long day was capped. An orange tossed by a tournament princess hit quarterback Ron VanderKelen on the head. He wasn't even stunned.

"It's a good thing he's a passer and not a receiver," quipped one wag.

Patriots Sign Bob Dentel of Miami University

BOSTON (AP)—Bou Dentel, of the University of Miami, Fla., became the second center in as many draftees to be signed by Boston of the American Football League Saturday night.

The Eastern Division runner-up acquired center-linebacker Don McKinnon of Dartmouth, second team All-America, Tuesday.

Dentel, 20, a 6-foot-1, 225-pounder from Pittsburgh, was on the south squad in Saturday's North-South game.

The Patriots said in announcing the signing that while Dentel was an all-round two-way center at Miami he was being acquired as an offensive pivot. McKinnon has been pegged for middle line-backer duties.

Dentel was 15th draft choice by both the Patriots and the Chicago Bears of the National League.

ensive unit that threw Dawson for losses totaling 43 yards as he dropped back on five pass attempts.

Blanda, a pro 13 of his 34 years, sandwiched a 31-yard field goal between two touchdown drives in which his passes accounted for 97 of the 116 yards involved. Charlie Tolar tied the score at 17-17 by ramming over from the 2 with 5 minutes and 58 seconds still remaining in regulation play.

Neither team crossed midfield in overtime until a 13-yard interception returned by Jerry Robinson opened the way for Dallas to move to the Oilers 38. But a 7-yard loss on a Dawson pass attempt forced the Texans to kick.

With Blanda completing five passes for 47 yards, the Oilers then moved 53 yards to the Texan 35 before Hull intercepted and started the winning drive.

Spikes, voted the game's outstanding player, netted 77 yards in 11 plays.

Demons Stave Off Late Warrior Rally For 79-72 Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—A hot-shooting De Paul basketball team ran up an early lead and then held on to beat Marquette Saturday night, 79-72.

The Demons, gained a 17-5 lead in the first six minutes of play and went on to win despite a fine rally by the Warriors early in the second half, when they cut an 18-point halftime deficit to five points. De Paul led 52-34 at the intermission.

The Warriors fought repeatedly in an effort to catch the Demons. Dave Erickson and Bon Hornak went out of the game with five personals each. De Paul made 31 free throws. Marquette outshot the De Paul team in field goals, 27-24.

ola of Chicago, unbeaten in seven games, downed Seattle 93-83.

There were other surprising developments as Notre Dame and Virginia Tech were bounced out of the undefeated Ranks. Butler, which had lost six of seven games, ended the Irish six game winning streak 66-59 and Vanderbilt turned back Virginia Tech 80-72 in overtime.

Ohio State came through as expected in beating Detroit 101-66 and Illinois dumped Oklahoma 93-90. Duke and Mississippi State were idle.

Bonham Hits 22

Roh Bonham scored 22 points to lead Cincinnati to victory over Davidson, which had surprised Duke earlier in the week. The Bearcats, sluggish in the opening half, had only an eight point lead at the intermission. But they tightened their defenses and came on strong in the second half.

Ohio State hit the road and the Ruckeyes' Gary Bradds hit for 19 points while Detroit's sophomore-studded team made numerous miscues.

Leslie Hunter connected for two field goals in the final minute to insure Loyola's triumph over Seattle. The West Coast team had moved to within 84-82 before Hunter came through with his clutch baskets. Eddie Miles of Seattle was the game's high scorer with 25 points. Jerry Harkness paced the Chicago club with 23.

Cotton Nash of Kentucky and Rod Thorn of West Virginia each scored 30 points in the Kentucky Invitational final. Nash took charge as the Wildcats battled back from a 34-29 halftime deficit to take the lead 47-46 with 13 minutes 40 seconds left. Kentucky led the rest of the way.

Oklahoma, trailing Illinois 91-90, had the ball with only 13 seconds remaining. But Dave Downey intercepted Farrell Johnson's pass from out of bounds, dribbled down and put in the clincher.

Stan Mikita, the Czechoslovakian-born center of the Chicago Black Hawks, is putting himself squarely in line for strong consideration for most valuable player honors in the first half of the National Hockey League.

The strong young forward, considered by many NHL players as one of the most dangerous opponents on ice, is one of the principal reasons the Hawks are holding a two-point bulge atop the league standings.

He poked in a goal from a scramble in front of the New York nets Sunday night, clinching a 3-1 victory over the Rangers and maintaining the Black Hawk lead over Toronto.

Phillies Hire Eddie Sawyer as Full Time Scout

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eddie Sawyer, former manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, has been hired as a full time scout. Gene Martin, farm director of the National League baseball club, announced Saturday night.

Sawyer served two different periods as the Phillies manager and led the 1950 Whiz Kids to the National League pennant.

He first took over as manager during the 1948 season but was fired in 1952. He again was named manager of the Phillies in the middle of the 1958 season, but resigned after the first game of the 1960 season when present Manager Gene Mauch took over.

Since 1960, Sawyer has been associated with a golf ball company.

He will cover part of western Pennsylvania and other territories yet to be determined and also used on special assignment.

Packers Had To Play at Emotional High

along the ground, quarterback Bart Starr was under closer surveillance; so much so that he could be rushed without fear of too many pichtouts and his touchdown production from passes fell from 16 in '61 to 12.

This was not a great drop, but important in a close game, such as the Packers lost to Detroit, 26-14, a difference of two touchdowns in a game when Bart spent most of the day studying cloud formations from a horizontal position.

Figures Misleading

Of course, figures can be misleading. Take the case of the Bears, who didn't place a man in the first 15 rushers and were 10th in scoring only because Roger LeClerc got 75 points through extra points and field goals.

Yet their Willie Galimore set a season's mark of 77 yards for the longest run from scrimmage and gave the best one-afternoon performance with 181 yards in 22 tries, both against the Forty-Niners, who won the game.

Without early season consistency, handicapped by injuries, the Bears still finished 9-5.

So when the Giants and Packers got down to cases in Yankee Stadium, the human element will replace statistics as the ultimate dividing rod.

"You can't play football by unyielding pattern," said Allie Sherman, the Giants' coach of the year. "It's all right to formulate your spread and set up a certain sense of timing, but beyond that, an imaginative adjustment to any situation is important."

Same Technique

"Practicality is the underlying all the teams have the same ingredient in pro football, because technique."

Sherman exemplified his reasoning in the Giants-Detroit game, which the Giants won 17-14, by subordinating Y. A. Tittle's expert passing to ball control on the ground, pounding away inside the lion ends.

That was something even Green Bay couldn't do in two games against Detroit.

It was a long spring and summer for Sherman.

He suffered without surcease from that 37-0 defeat by Green Bay a year ago.

It was a thorough licking. The Giants never looked the part of divisional champions. They were mauled, jeered and hog-tied.

When Allie walked off Wrigley Field a few weeks ago, after 23-22. Each hit five of seven shots clinching the Eastern title with that narrow win from the Bears, club to a 64-43 halftime advantage.

COLLEGE AVE. AT WY. ST.

Our wish and our hope is that the true spirit of Christmas — its joy — its hope — its beauty — and above all, its abiding faith . . . may live among us . . . and that the good in man's heart may, day by day, be magnified — and that we come to see more clearly — not that which divides, but that which unites . . . to build and grow in understanding and sympathy with others. May the blessing of Christmas be that of peace.

'Waiting for Bus,' Burglar Says When Apprehended Inside Store

OSHKOSH — "I'm waiting for a bus," said a 50-year-old Oshkosh man when he was found inside a Pickett grocery store at 5:13 a.m. Sunday.

The man, Leonard P. Grota, 26 N. Main St., was arrested by Winnebago County police when he was found inside the Herbert Ankla Store.

When apprehended, Grota was found drinking a can of beer in the store's washroom. Inside a satchel which Grota carried were seven other cans of beer and 10 packs of cigarettes. The Oshkosh man also admitted taking nine pennies from the cash register.

Breaks Glass

Entry to the store was gained by breaking the glass in a storm door and rear door and then crawling through the opening. Ankla told county police that his store had been broken into during the night and that the man was still inside.

Grota was arraigned before County Judge James Sitter this morning for burglary. Preliminary hearing was set for 3 p.m. Friday, Jan. 4. Grota was jailed in default of $5,000 bond.

Grota complained that his back and legs hurt because he fell down several times Saturday night when he walked to Pickett. He had been released from Waupun State Prison earlier this month, where he had served part of a 5-year term imposed in 1959 for nighttime burglary.

Speaker of Assembly Dies

David Blanchard Had Been in Poor Health for Long Time

EDGERTON (AP) — David J. Blanchard, 41, speaker of the Wisconsin Assembly, and former Republican floorleader, died last night following a lengthy illness.

Blanchard, who had announced recently that his health would not permitted him to seek another term as speaker, entered Edgerton Memorial Community Hospital Friday. He died at 11:05 p.m. Sunday.

Hospital authorities listed uremia as the immediate cause of death. He had suffered from a congenital kidney ailment which required him to use oxygen constantly and had recently made it necessary for him to use a wheelchair.

Blanchard had represented Rock County's 2nd District in the Assembly since 1954 and in November was named to a fifth term.

A native of Edgerton, born Jan. 5, 1921, he was graduated from the University of Wisconsin Law School in 1943 and became a practicing attorney in his home city.

In 1959, Blanchard was Republican floorleader and the following year became speaker of the house. He served as chairman of the Legislative Council, an inter-im body, and on many important committees, including the Committee on Tax Revision.

He was active also in civic,

Appleton Officials Told Auditor Doesn't Want Job

Wanted: An auditor for the City of Appleton.

City officials were notified today they will no longer have the services of Carl J. Becher and Co., 303 W. College Ave., to audit the city's books and help out at budget preparation time.

In a letter to Mayor Clarence Mitchell and the common council, Becher said: "We regret that we will be unable to do the City of Appleton auditing in 1963."

He pointed out that Frank C. Okada, formerly with the firm, will not be doing public accounting, as he has taken private employment.

"We wish to thank the mayor and council for the splendid cooperation given to our auditors in the past years," Becher said.

(A move was underway during 1963 budget hearings to have the city appoint a finance director but the common council voted it down. However, a survey is being made to determine what duties a director would perform if Appleton decided to hire one. Results of the survey are expected March 1.)

Many municipalities enter into annual contracts with the State of Wisconsin to have state auditors check over city books on an annual basis.

Survivors include his wife, the former Caroline Jensen of Cambridge, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Blanchard of Edgerton.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Edgerton Congregational Church. The Rev. Edwin Beers will officiate and burial will be in Fasset Cemetery.

Pipe Cleaners Are Pliable, Easy to Use for Weaving

BY CAPPY DICK

Pipe cleaners are really just lengths of wire with padding attached to them. Because they are pliable it's easy to use them for weaving. A set of woven coasters to place tumblers on is a good fun-project to try.

With an old pair of scissors, cut six or eight cleaners in half. The square, use several more strips of cleaner vertically than horizontally.

A set of hot plate pads for use under dishes containing hot foods may be made by using whole cleaners rather than halves.

Joy at Christmas

Across the years, the miracle of Christmas shines like the light of the Star, casting its eternal radiance into our lives and hearts. As we celebrate this holy season, let us rejoice anew in the wonder of Christmas...let us cherish its glad message. Let us take pause from the turmoil and stress of our daily life to rededicate our spiritual aspirations toward "Peace on earth, good will to all men."

Hoffa Jury Fails To Reach Verdict; Mistrial Declared

Judge Orders Inquiry Regarding Testimony on Alleged Tampering

BY GAVIN SCOTT
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Justice Department has failed again—for the fourth time in five years—to put James R. Hoffa behind bars.

The $1-million conspiracy trial of the Teamsters Union president wound up with a hung jury Sunday. After the judge declared a mistrial, several jurors said the vote was 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Hoffa was accused of conspiring with a Michigan car-hauling firm to violate the Taft-Hartley Act's ban against payoffs from employers to union officials. The complex trial began Oct. 22.

As he released the jurors, U.S. Dist. Judge William E. Miller ordered a thorough investigation into heretofore secret FBI testimony that two Hoffa associates tampered with or tried to influence two members of the jury. The two jurors were replaced by alternates earlier this month.

Jury Out 17 Hours

The jury received the case Friday and deliberated 17 hours, including three hours Sunday. Upon receiving the jury's fourth report that it was hopelessly deadlocked, the judge dismissed the panel.

"I dislike very much the idea of not having the case resolved one way or the other after all of this labor and effort. However, there comes a time when, if the members of the jury cannot agree, they cannot agree, and that is it," Judge Miller said.

Hoffa said he was disappointed he was not acquitted but gratified he wasn't convicted.

James F. Neal, special assistant to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and chief prosecutor in this case, said he had no idea whether the government would seek a retrial.

Many Legal Fights

In the five years since he became president of the 1.5-million member Teamsters Union, Hoffa has spent much of his time in legal scraps with the federal government.

The stocky labor boss was acquitted by a Washington, D.C., jury in 1957 of conspiring to bribe a McClellan committee investigator. Later that year he was indicted in New York on wiretap conspiracy charges. The first trial ended in a hung jury. Hoffa was acquitted on a retrial the next year.

Hoffa charged the Kennedy administration, particularly Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, with turning to Page 9 Col. 1

Katanga, U.N. Units Clash at Elisabethville

Each Side Lays Blame on Other After Outbreak

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Katanga gendarmes and troops of the U.N. Congo command battled heavily today on the outskirts of Elisabethville. Each side blamed the other for the Christmas Eve outbreak.

Katangans shot down a U.N. helicopter that flew low over their lines and captured the 11 men aboard it — three Swedes, six Indians and two Irishmen. All were slightly injured. The Katangans said they feared the helicopter was being used to establish a combat position behind them.

U.N. Ethiopian soldiers declared the Katangans started the hostilities. On the other hand, Katanga President Moise Tshombe accused the Ethiopians.

Calls News Session

Tshombe told a hurriedly called news conference the Ethiopians fired on Katanga positions from the slag heap of a Union Miniere Copper mine.

"When my soldiers were fired on they retorted, firing in the air and awaiting their superiors' instructions," he said. "We were and still are hoping for a peaceful Christmas."

The secessionist leader declared that calm had been re-established.

But the outbreak, which erupted at 10 a.m. with rifle and machine gun fire from positions near the capital's African townships, persisted into the afternoon. There was heavy shooting every few minutes. A stray bullet hit the Elisabethville post office.

Africans fled from their places of work to the native townships, avoiding all U.N. positions. Shops shut and factories closed. All business houses were quickly deserted. Memories of the battle of Elisabethville last December, in which a U.N. combat force crushed Elisabethville's garrison, sped the shutdown.

Despite the fear of a new crisis, U.N. military police patrols passed unmolested through the center of town.

10 of Family Perish in Fire In Nova Scotia

BROUGHTON, Nova Scotia (AP)—A farmer and nine of his children died today in a fire that destroyed their home.

Robert Bateman, 33, helped his wife to safety from their flaming, one-story wooden bungalow, then re-entered in an attempt to save the children and perished.

Volunteer firemen from Birch Grove, the nearest department, found the dwelling leveled when they arrived. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

Mrs. Bateman trudged half a mile in below-freezing temperatures and more than 20 inches of snow to tell her nearest neighbors of the fire.

5 Die in Maryland

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—A fire that broke out in a farm home shortly after two baby-sitters left Sunday took the lives of five children.

The frame tenant house, which was almost completely destroyed, was on a large tobacco farm near here. State police said the fire began in an overheated wood stove.

The victims were identified as Linda Vanessa Harper, 2; Clinton Louellen Harper, 5 months; Wayne August Thomas, 7; Early Bor-don Thomas, 9; Sheila-Louvenia Thomas, 6.

Cold Macaroni and Dried Beans Daily Fare of Cuban Prisoners

BY JAMES BUCHANAN
Chicago Daily News Service

MIAMI — Eat cold macaroni stuck in dried beans seven days a week for seven months.

Sleep, usually without blankets, on a cold stone floor and shave once every three months, and then only after two tough-bearded men have used the single razor blade allotted the three of you.

Lived in Constant Glare

Go without cigarettes and sugar for half a year. Live under continual light — brilliant sunlight by day and brilliant electric light by night.

Be given water only once a day, but watch other prisoners awakened in the middle of a chilly night and doused with the stuff.

Do all this and you'll have some small idea of the life of a prisoner of Fidel Castro — one of the 213 who were confined on the Isle of Pines.

Your news, when it comes, comes only by grapevine, returning invaders said yesterday.

You hear of "Los Americanos," but they are far away in other cell blocks and other than knowing they are alive you never really learn the fate of the 23 Americans held on this communist Devil's Island off the south coast of Cuba.

Edgardo Buttari Jr., the 26-year-old son of a former minister of labor for one-time Cuban President Carlos Prío, was one of those 213 confined on the island.

Traffic Toll May be Less Than Estimated

Could be Safest Christmas on Record, Expert Declares

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic death toll passed the 300 mark in the first 2½ days of the long Christmas weekend, a pace far below holiday estimates by safety experts.

"If the present trend continues, this will be the safest Christmas holiday on record," said Howard Pyle, president of the national Safety Council.

The council, based on previous holidays and the record traffic toll for the past year, had estimated 650 to 750 deaths on the highways during the long holiday period.

"If the trend holds," Pyle said, "the final toll could be as low as 350."

Pyle said that the traffic toll was 100 lower than for the corresponding period for the Christmas holiday last year. In last year's three-day Christmas observance, traffic deaths totaled 524.

Stormy and cold weather in sections of the eastern half of the country, the council said, may have resulted in fewer cars on the highways and ore careful driving. More snow also was in prospect for the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley regions today and on Christmas. Driving conditions were hazardous in some areas.

Youth Asphyxiated in Hit Automobile but Girl Friend Is Revived

EAU CLAIRE (AP)—A 20-year-old Eau Claire youth, employed out of town and home for the holidays, was asphyxiated in his automobile early this morning.

His girl friend revived and was in fair condition. Authorities said death was due to carbon monoxide fumes from the car heater.

Randall Langworthy was pronounced dead on arrival at Luther Hospital. His date, Ellen Gardner, 19, of Stanley, Wis., was believed recovering.

Langworthy's father, Howard, found the two, both unconscious, in the automobile parked in front of his home when he came out of the house to go to work this morning. He carried them into the house, summoned Dr. Patrick Finnane, a physician who lived nearby, and rescue squads. Miss Gardner was revived by artificial respiration but efforts to revive Langworthy were unsuccessful.

2 Gunmen Seize Bank Employee, Registered Mail

CHICAGO (AP)—Two gunmen seized a bank employee at a street corner today and grabbed a bag of registered mail containing deposits. The value of the pouch contents was not known immediately.

The gunmen forced Roy J. Knockemus, 59, assistant cashier of the Commercial National Bank, into their automobile shortly after he left the Ravenswood Post Office substation.

Knockemus, who was pushed from the auto several blocks from where he was intercepted, told police the mail deposits might amount to as much as $100,000.

Harry R. Spellbrink, president of the bank, said most of the mail deposits were usually received in check form. He said the receipts normally would include 100 to 200 checks, but he declined an estimate of the value of checks or cash in the pouch.

Spellbrink said flyers will be sent to all depositors asking those who mailed receipts to the bank in the last several days to stop payment on checks listed on their deposit records.

The Power of Faith

Throughout the Ages Man's faith in God has been assaulted by the godless; each generation has fought the fight. For Christians, the anniversary of the birth of the Christ Child is an occasion for renewal of faith. Recalling that this event changed the shape of the world — brought lordly kings to a lowly stable, then humbled a pagan empire — men realize that faith can move mountains.

"I am with you always," said the Savior, "even unto the end of the world."

A Story for Christmas Reading

BY AN APPLETON PRIEST

Tom Noelo jumped nimbly from the school bus that brought him a few miles out of town each day. All of his ten years tucked in a red coat, he scampered blithely through the snow that fell like confetti tossed from heaven's windows by playful angels. Into the warm kitchen he scrambled, trailing blobs of snow and water.

"Hi, Mom," he chortled, remembering to hang up his coat and hat (for it was Christmas Eve).

"Hello, son. Did you enjoy the Christmas party?"

"It was tops, Mom." Tommy replied, submitting, boy-like, to his mother's kiss. "There were games, and prizes, and cookies and everything. See what I went!"

"Why Tommy, how wonderful! It's a very nice ball," Mrs. Noelo exclaimed; then she added in an altered tone, "Tommy, can you do the chores tonight? Your father isn't feeling well at all."

"Sure thing, Ma," Tommy chimed in his melodious soprano, "I'll be done quick as a whistle."

Tommy didn't know what his father's sickness was, but he knew that the chores meant feeding the many animals on the farm — chickens, pigs, an ox, cows, horses, sheep, a donkey, and his own dog. Retrieving his hat and coat, he disappeared in the growing winter dusk as his mother shouted after him, "I've already milked the cows and fed them, and the chickens."

"O.k., Ma," the boy's voice

came back, and then his version of a Christmas carol melted into the darkness.

"Down, Tiger! Down, I say!" Tommy's voice shrilled at his dog, as it barked and ran about, frightening the sheep. The dog shifted into low gear, and tamely followed the lad. Soon he had finished calming the "woolies" and fed them, and proceeded light-heartedly to the pig pen. A he began to mix the fodder, the pigs crowded around the trough, oink-oinking clamorously, for all the world to hear. He remembered that when he was very little, he used to think the pigs were reciting grace before meals when they vociferated so importunately. Anyway, they were quiet now, except for the noisy, lapping sounds they made as they ate. This job was about finished. Another pitchfork of straw in that corner of the sty — that ought to do the trick.

With youth's inexhaustible energy he precipitated himself into the farm yard, half running, half dancing through the swirling snow, to feed the other animals in the big barn.

At the door he suddenly stood stock still. He thought he heard the sound of voices. Or what sort of sounds were they?

Cautiously, silently, he entered. There! He heard it again. Voices they were for sure: one, a deep, dull bass, another keyed in a high, harsh pitch. But they were voices.

He was about to snap on the barn lights, when the unexpected

Planes Kept On Stringent Schedule

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Operation Ransom roared into action this Christmas Eve to continue an airlift of 1,113 prisoners of Cuba's communism to freedom and wildly joyous family reunions on free U.S. soil.

All the indications were for a full-speed ahead to wind up the job begun Sunday. The day's first plane load—109 more survivors of the unsuccessful April 1961, Bay of Pigs invasion—touched down at Homestead Air Force Base at 10:24 a.m.

It seemed possible the whole job would be completed in the afternoon.

Today's first flight brought the total on free soil to 535.

Unexplained Delay

The airlift brought 425 men to Florida from the San Antonio de los Baños military airport outside Havana in the spectacular Sunday operation before suspending for the night.

The halt was sudden and without explanation after the last of four flights deposited its humans-for-goods cargo on free soil. The pilots of planes waiting in Cuba then decided, however, to spend the night there and resume, rested, in the morning.

This meant the vigil kept throughout Sunday by many thousands of anxious, weary, prisoners' relatives had to be faced again on Christmas eve.

All the pent-up tension of a long, prayerful campaign to free the 1,113 invasion survivors exploded in a roaring storm of emotion as Cuban exiles got their first glimpses of wan, tired young men brought in by a spectacular Operation Ransom shuttle.

DC's, supplied by Pan American World Airways flew between Miami and Havana carrying to freedom plane loads of men exchanged by Fidel Castro's regime for $33 million worth of food and medicines sorely needed in Cuba.

108 on First Plane

The first plane landed at 6:06 p.m., EST, Sunday, carrying 108 pale, tired men who suffered bitter defeat in their attempt to liberate their Island nation and repeated humiliations at the hands of Havana's Communist-dominated government.

By 8:55, the fourth plane load had arrived, bringing the total number delivered to 426.

Then the flights seemed to be suspended, although officials in Miami said they could not explain it. Anxious relatives who had waited since early morning until long past midnight slowly began to drift out, in deep disappointment, from the Dinner Key Auditorium reception center. Some simply dropped from exhaustion in their chairs.

Crowds waiting for the prisoners since early Sunday morning had gone through eight hours of tense, fear-laden vigil before a

Brillion School May Have to Expand

Superintendent Lists Increasing Enrollment as Major Problem

FOREST JUNCTION — The inevitable need for additional facilities to accommodate an increasing enrollment was stressed by Gaylord Unbehaun, superintendent of the Brillion Public School system, during a question and answer period at a businessmen's breakfast at Forest Junction Elementary School Saturday morning.

It was the third and last of a series of meetings of a "School-time Breakfast Club" for discussion of school problems. Two previous meetings with Brillion businessmen were in that city.

Asked whether a building program was being planned during the next five years, Unbehaun submitted projected enrollment figures based on present elementary enrollment which would raise the present high school enrollment of 286 to 326 by 1967.

To allay suspicions that a building program would be concentrated on the facilities at Brillion for ultimate elimination of the new four-room school at Forest Junction, he said present planning took into account the need of enlargement of the Forest Junction building for a kindergarten and improved shower and locker facilities.

Present combined bonded indebtedness of the district of $385,000, including $90,000 on Forest Junction property and the high tax rate in the 1962 roll were subjects of further questioning. Both districts, it was explained, had been delaying needed purchases and maintenance pending annexation last summer.

Systems Discussed
Study assignments, the honor roll system, achievement requirements and regularity of attendance were touched upon in a discussion of the manifold activity challenging high school students. Many spread themselves out very thin, it was concluded. In permitting absences from school for trivial reasons, parents were chided for forgetting that school is the child's business and that regularity at school usually is an indication of how regular a person will be in future positions.

Teachers should not mistakenly be accused of teaching Communism, Unbehaun said, when they teach about Communism in comparison to American ideals. The question was on what provision schools today make for teaching patriotism. Use of the pledge of allegiance when opportunity presents and the national anthem at basketball games were among measures cited.

The desire of administrators to serve particular needs of their respective communities and still compare favorably with other schools; the standard training of teachers and their attendance at conferences and conventions; the powerful influence of text books; and participation for credit rating with the North Central Association furnished answers to a question on correlation in setting up courses of study in schools and colleges.

A Fox River Valley Curriculum Conference is in the process of formation, it was reported.

Hearing Held At Brillion on Zone Changes

Plan Commission Will Study Requests On Street Extension

BRILLION — A public hearing on proposed zoning ordinance changes, the official city map and subdivision regulations was held at city hall. Henry Ford of Mead and Hunt, Madison planners, was present to answer questions and discuss the matter.

R. A. Kleiber and Harrison Weaver voiced opposition to the extensions of Park Avenue and Calumet Street. These streets if extended to the east would bisect Brillion Iron Works property, and would render it less usable for industrial purposes, they said.

A suggested change in the present zoning ordinance for lot area was made. Presently the ordinance calls for 6,000 square feet per lot. The change would make the requirement 7,200 square feet for all residential lots. There were no objections.

Multiple Dwellings
Howard Leppia asked for more multiple family and commercial districts in the zoning plans.

The city clerk, Lynn Williams, read the proposed subdivision regulation, concerned with development of such areas.

Action on any of the changes will be held over for the recommendations of the planning commission. The next public hearing on the matter will be Jan. 21.

Free lessons were originally set for two January weekends, Jan. 6-7 and 13-14, but this has now been trimmed to just the Sunday, Jan. 7 and 14. The Saturday lessons, have been eliminated.

Instructors from the Fox Valley Ski Club will be in charge of the lessons at Calumet County Park. Through the school, Freidel hopes to encourage more interest in the fast-growing winter sport.

Move Depot to Forest Junction By Truck From Greenleaf

FOREST JUNCTION — The former Milwaukee Road depot at Greenleaf has been moved to its new location at the railroad crossing at Forest Junction. Workmen are revamping the structure to replace a larger 75-year-old depot torn down last month.

A Green Bay moving contractor towed in the Greenleaf building with a motor truck along State 57 this week. Shipment by rail of the 20 by 32-foot building was prevented by insufficient clearance through the arch of the U.S. 10 overpass just north of Forest Junction.

The Greenleaf station had been closed for a number of years. The two-room depot, including an office and a freight warehouse, was adapted to the requirements at Forest Junction, where passenger service had been discontinued about eight years ago.

Railroad business here, during the interval of moving and equipping, is being handled in a railroad camp car spotted on a siding at the site of the railroad crossing. The crossing is of the mail line of the Milwaukee Road from Chicago to Calumet, Mich. with the Manitowoc - Appleton branch of the Chicago and North Western.

Firemen Put Out Blaze at Jericho Home

CHILTON — Chilton firemen needed gas masks to combat dense smoke while extinguishing a fire Sunday that started from a short-circuited electric blanket at the Clem Herriger home in Jericho.

Firemen were called about 1:45 p.m. fire chief Norbert Sturm said. Mrs. Herriger turned in the alarm when she smelled smoke coming from an upstairs bedroom. She attempted to enter the room before calling firemen, but was driven back by the smoke.

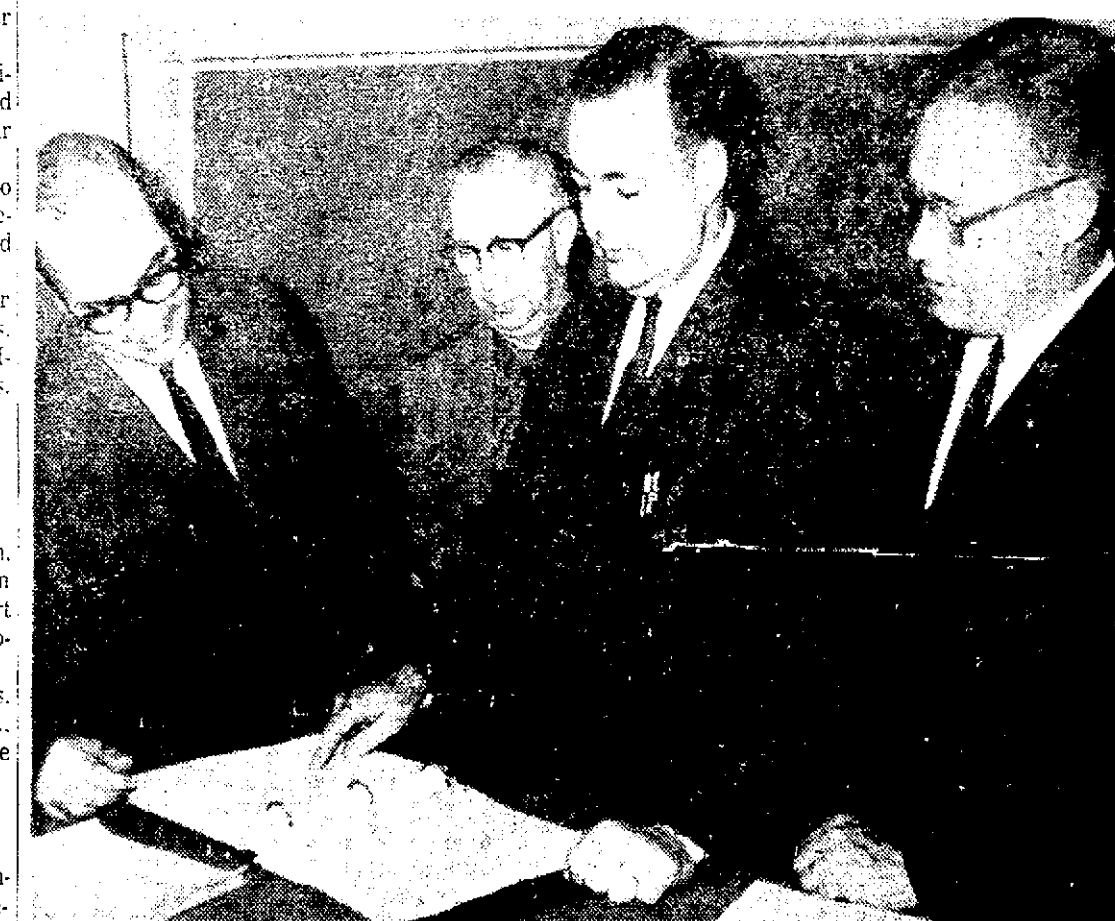

The fire was quickly checked once firemen made their way to the room. The electric blanket apparently started to burn, setting fire to the blanket, bed and part of the bedroom. No estimate of damage has been made.

Schinderle Elected Assistant Fire Chief in Stockbridge

Master Plan Set For New London

Proposal by Chicago Consulting Firm Will be Presented to Housing, Home Finance Agency

NEW LONDON — A city master plan will begin to take shape when a proposal presented by Candeb, Flessig and Associates, Chicago, is accepted by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, who will grant funds to the city.

Application for the approval and the funds was made by members of the city planning commission at a meeting Wednesday with a representative of the State Department of Resource Development and a representative of the planning concern.

Approval of an application by the federal agency usually takes 10 weeks, a Department of Resource Development representative told commission members.

The aid for which the city is applying is under the federal 701 program. The program will pay for two-thirds of the planning costs. The city pays the remaining one-third. The city council already has appropriated the funds for the city's share of the costs, and the planning commission has the approval of the council to go ahead with the planning.

Basic Study
Included in the program are a basic planning study, which will include a survey of existing land use, including residential, commercial, industrial and other land uses. Following the land use study, the consultants will prepare a map illustrating the results of the survey and compute the total land area in each land use category.

Other items included in the studies will be population trends and a forecast of future population distribution, physical resources, with a description of natural and cultural resources to determine what resources help attract new types of industry; a description of the structure of the urban economy; a description of the interrelationship of city and region to determine the city's economic potential and a projection of future needs for industrial space.

A preliminary land use plan will be based on the basic planning studies with a description of the general characteristics of all of the land use classifications indicating significant types of land use problems.

The traffic and transportation survey, analysis and preliminary plan will include basic data studies with review of existing studies prepared by the various governments, a description of the general characteristics of transportation systems affecting the community and significant transportation problems including traffic congestion points.

Thoroughfare Plan
Also included in the traffic and transportation survey will be a preliminary thoroughfare plan with a study of major and secondary streets needed to accom-

5 Accidents Reported in New London

Kaukauna Man's Death Declared To be Accidental

A rural Kaukauna man who died Sept. 18 while he sat in his car in an enclosed garage, was ruled an accidental death by Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps. Carl M. Krummenacher, 33, route 3, Kaukauna, was found dead in his car. When he was found, the car engine was off and the gasoline tank was empty. The ignition key was in an on position. Kemps said an investigation showed Krummenacher was running the motor in an unused car to keep it activated. The garage doors were closed and Krummenacher was overcome by fumes. Laboratory analysis indicated an 85 per cent saturation of carbon monoxide. Kemps said a reading of 50 to 60 is deadly. Kemps warned of the danger of operating car engines with closed garage doors. Carbon monoxide fumes do not give warning before making a victim unconscious.

Clintonville High Expands Electronic Language Lab

BY MILLIE LAIB — CLINTONVILLE — Clintonville High School's language teaching facilities have been augmented with the installation of an electronic learning center. The 24-booth language laboratory replaces the nine booth facility which was moved to the junior high school, adding to the language teaching facilities there. The new language laboratory is used in German classes taught by Walter Rohm and for French taught by Mrs. Ada Nell. Mrs. Nell also plans on using it in her Latin classes. The cost of the electronics learning center to the Clintonville School District was about $5,000. The remainder of the cost, or approximately 50 per cent, was paid by the federal government under the National Defense Education Act. The electronic learning center gives us a teaching aid far superior to most language laboratory equipment on the market today, Rohm said. "The numerous possibilities in the way this equipment can be put to use is unbelievable." With a full classroom lab, there is no longer a necessity for the division of the class into waiting groups, necessary with the old partial lab. There is a great increase in the talking and listening practice for all the students. The teacher can check individual students with ease and with the least amount of embarrassment. The teacher also can hold private conferences with a student having difficulty without interrupting the other students. Four Decks The teacher contains four separate tape decks which can be used simultaneously so that students may be divided into four groups and can be working on four assignments at the same time. This arrangement makes it possible to record the voice of one student or 12 students at the same time. Three of the individual booths are equipped with recorders so a student can make his own tapes. It is also possible for two or more students to carry on a practice conversation while the rest of the class can be working undisturbed with other taped material. The four tape decks make it possible for lessons to be programmed in accordance with the pupil's ability to learn. Other equipment includes a four-speed phonograph so records in the language being studied may be used also. Native Speakers Commercial tapes are prepared by native speakers and are conveniently available whenever needed. There can be a variety of native voices, dialects, and intonation patterns. There can be men's voices, women's voices, and children's voices. Students trained exclusively by one teacher often have trouble understanding other speakers. Tapes are tireless masters. There is no impatience in the voice as the day drags on. The tape doesn't wait and the students must respond at a conversational rate. Principal Burr Tolles explained conversation as a teaching approach of languages is the most modern method and these new facilities use this technique to the utmost.

Due to starting the school term after Labor Day and the 185 days of school set at the annual meeting, a longer recess would make the school closing date late in spring.

Mine Disaster Fails to Kill Yule Spirit of Townspeople

Many Families Will Celebrate Holidays in Memory of Dead

BY W. A. SWARTWORTH

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP)—Life in the depressed coal fields of southwestern Pennsylvania is seldom easy. But the people have a way of making the best of it. So it is this Christmas season, even in the aftermath of disaster. Two weeks ago a tremendous explosion killed 37 men deep inside the nearby Robena No. 3 mine of U.S. Steel Corp. Thirty-four women lost husbands; 5 children under age 19 lost fathers. A shock wave of dread and gloom engulfed this soft coal region, spreading to the 17 different towns where the miners lived—places like Carmichaels, Ronco, Masonstown, Uledi, Adah, Clarksville.

Four of the victims came from Carmichaels (pop. 780), closest community to the shattered mine, which derives its very existence from coal mining.

Recalling the Dec. 6 tragedy Albert M. Hathaway, secretary of Carmichaels Borough Council, says: "The whole town was upset. There was so much concern, so much sympathy for the families involved."

Sadness Remains

There is sadness still in Carmichaels, some bitterness—and even a touch of despair. But the qualities that come through strongest are courage and determination.

"This hasn't killed Christmas for the townspeople," observes the Rev. Russell C. Owens, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. "Certainly there is some dampening of the holiday spirit. They're sad—but they're trying to carry on as usual."

So, too, are the families of the dead miners. "Despite their grief," says the Rev. Mr. Owens, "they're trying to pick up the pieces and begin a new life."

One of those widowed is Mrs. Delilah Tokish, 36, whose husband, Joseph 43, had worked in the mines for 22 years. Mrs. Tokish has three children—a boy 8, girls 3 and 12.

"At first I wasn't going to have anything for Christmas," Mrs. Tokish relates. "But the more I thought about it, the more I came to realize that Joe wouldn't want it that way. He adored the kids; he would want the best for them. So we're going to have the finest Christmas we can."

Delic Boyd, 13, whose father, Frank, 43, also was killed, says, "We're going to have Christmas just the same at our house." Then, she adds wistfully, "Well, almost the same. Mom says dad would like it that way."

Leroy Willis, principal of Carmichaels Borough Grade School where Delic is an eighth-grade student, says Boyd had just returned to work the week of the explosion after having been off ill since Oct. 22. Delic has a younger sister and three older brothers.

Outwardly, Christmas this year in Carmichaels is the same as in past years.

"The town doesn't do much really," notes the Rev. Mr. Owens. For one thing, he explains, Carmichaels is in an economically depressed area with high unemployment.

Carols sound from a loud-speaker in the middle of town. Strings of colored lights criss-cross the main street. Houses are decorated simply. Churches and social organizations are holding parties for the children.

There has been no curtailment of the town's formal holiday activities. Whatever had been planned before the disaster is being carried out.

The Rev. Mr. Owens traces this spirit in part to what he calls miner psychology, a feeling that "anything can happen in the mines, and if it does, you just take it and go on from there."

Same Thoughts

Much the same thoughts are expressed by the Rev. Thomas F. Carey, pastor of St. Hugh's Roman Catholic Church.

"Miners and their families are conditioned, to a degree, to the hazards involved in making a living underground," he says. "They know such things have happened before—and can happen again. It's part of their life."

Mr. and Mrs. James Samner, parents of Mrs. Tokish, relate their daughter took news of her husband's death "calmly, very calmly." They say her first thoughts were for the children; she didn't "want to make it any rougher for them."

Sanner, a retired coal mine stationary engineer, says Tokish had been working irregularly—three or four days a week, and the family "had to skimp financially as it was."

"There's a lot of money coming in now—or so it seems," Sanner observes. "But Delilah has a long pull ahead until her youngest, Diane, 3, is grown up. It's going to be a struggle."

Disaster Fund

Mrs. Tokish, like other survivors, received $1,000 from a special disaster fund of the United Mine Workers Union. The union also will distribute a total of $20,000 among the families.

UMW Local 6321 has started a Christmas fund, and Uniontown Newspapers, Inc., has established a trust fund for the education, health and welfare of the children and other dependents. U.S. Steel has donated $25,000 to the latter fund.

In addition, there are Social Security benefits, state workmen's compensation and proceeds from private life insurance.

Waupaca Couple Granted Divorce

WAUPACA — Mrs. Anne Marie Heintzner, 722 Bartlett St., Waupaca, was granted an absolute divorce from Harry J. Heintzner, 43, Wausau, this week in County Court by Judge Wendell McHenry.

Mrs. Heintzner was suing for legal separation from her husband. She was awarded custody of their two minor children. Heintzner was ordered to pay $30 every two weeks in support of the children and $5 per year alimony. They were married Nov. 20, 1937, in Milwaukee.

Judge McHenry also granted a divorce to Mrs. Helen Lorraine Sweeney, Ogdensburg, from Robert N. Sweeney, 65, Ogdensburg. They were married Sept. 29, 1961, in Waukegan, Ill.

Sunday School Pupils Carol at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — Sunday School pupils of the junior department of the First Methodist Church which includes fourth, fifth and sixth grades were caroling Thursday night in the city.

The group was accompanied by the Rev. and Mrs. Bernard Kaslikke and the teachers, Mrs. Dan McCarthy, Mrs. Lowell Walker and Mrs. Robert Moreland.

16-Room School to Be Built by Parish

St. Bernadette Parish Hopes to Have Building Completed by 1964

Construction of a 16-classroom elementary school for St. Bernadette Catholic parish will start this spring if the city council okays street improvements, sewer and water to the site in south-east Appleton, the Rev. W. C. McKinnon said today.

The school gymnasium will be used temporarily as a church by the congregation, he said. Future plans call for construction of a rectory, convent and church on the same site.

If construction starts this spring, the school is planned for operation in the fall of 1964. The pastor estimated the parish has about 500 children in first through eighth grades.

Robert Surplice, Green Bay architect, is preparing plans for the school. Bids will be taken if the council approves a resolution calling for the street improvements which was submitted Wednesday.

If the improvements are not made now, the school won't be ready for operation until 1965, Father McKinnon said.

The 15-acre school site is located on Lourdes Drive, about three blocks southwest of the new Johnston School. The site is bounded on the east by Matthias Street, on the west by Buchanan Street, and on the south by Bona Avenue.

The school will have 16 classrooms, a gymnasium and a cafeteria. A cost estimate is not yet available.

No Church

St. Bernadette parish was established in the fall of 1960. It was created through a division of Sacred Heart parish. Church services are being held temporarily in a quonset hut at 1513 E. Cass Street which was converted to a church by members of the congregation.

Appleton's newest Catholic parish, St. Bernadette is the only one which does not operate a grade school.

Yule Party Includes Exchange of Gifts For Homemakers

BRILLION — The annual Christmas party of the Brillion Valley Homemakers Club took place at the home of Mrs. Joe Geiger.

The group had a Christmas auction. Winners were Mrs. Max Wittman, Mrs. Harlan Schuh and Lawrence Bolman. Secret pals were revealed and new names were drawn for next year. Gifts were exchanged.

The next meeting, which will be on consumer credit will be Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. Wittman. Mrs. Florian Callisch and Mrs. Alfred Wittman will present the program.

Assisting Mrs. Geiger with the Christmas party were Mrs. Max Wittman, Mrs. Schuh and Mrs. Bolman.

Brillion Gym Program Includes Archery

BRILLION — Archery is a new sport in the gym program of Brillion High School. Approximately 180 boys are learning to shoot a bow and arrow. The stage is used for the target rest, and the bowmen stand on the gym floor. Up to 18 boys can shoot at a time.

One other new step in physical education at Brillion will start in February or March, when six lanes of bowling will be started. The gym instead of the local bowling alley will be used because of the size of the classes. More than the four available alleys are needed, and when the size of a class makes it feasible to use the regular alleys, it will be done.

Compressor Blaze

CLINTONVILLE — The Clintonville Volunteer Fire department was called to the Utility Tool and Body Co., 16th Street, at 1 p.m. Friday when a minor fire started from a compressor that backfired.

Ogdensburg Man Buys School Building, Land

MARION — Norman E. Much, route 1, Ogdensburg, last week purchased the Shady Grove school building and land from the board of Joint School District 3. Two bids were received.
